Mary Bissinger

Marty,
You are one heck of a guy.
You are really fun to have around, I know I will see you in the summer. Try not to party too much but then I guess it is better too much then not enough.

Love you (524-9648)
your friend
Melanie Stout

Marty,
I'm glad I got to know you better this year because I'll always thought you were a real guy. I hope you have a great summer and all that stuff. Hope
I see you next year. Love,

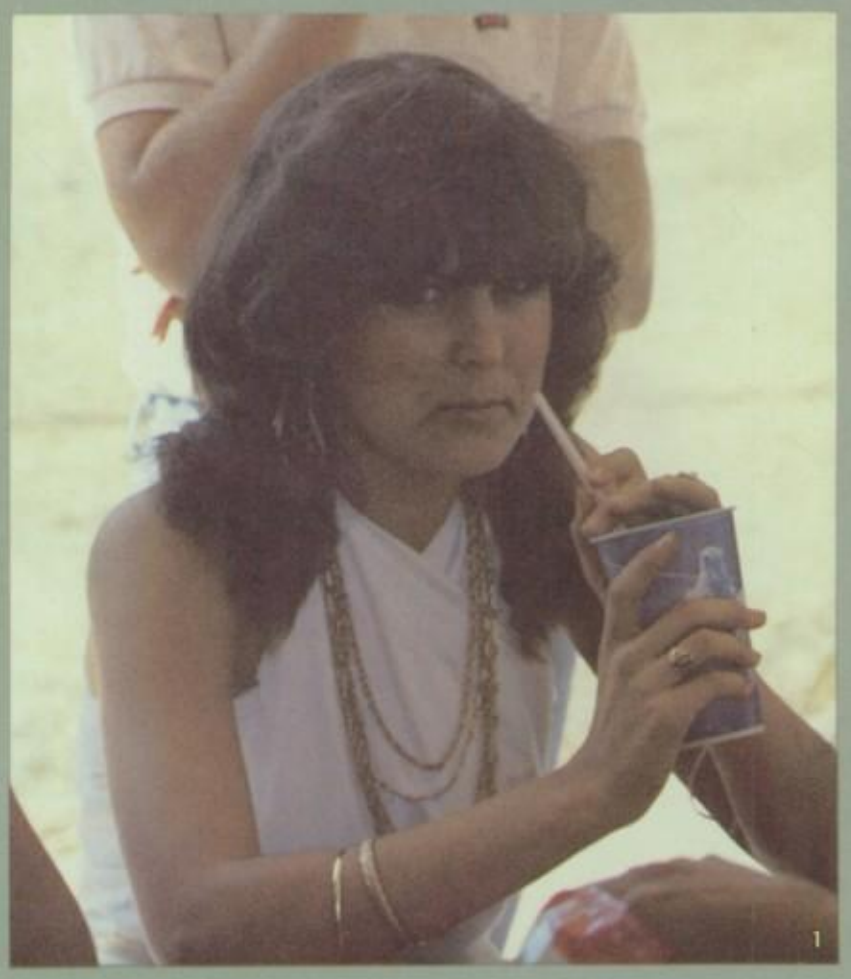
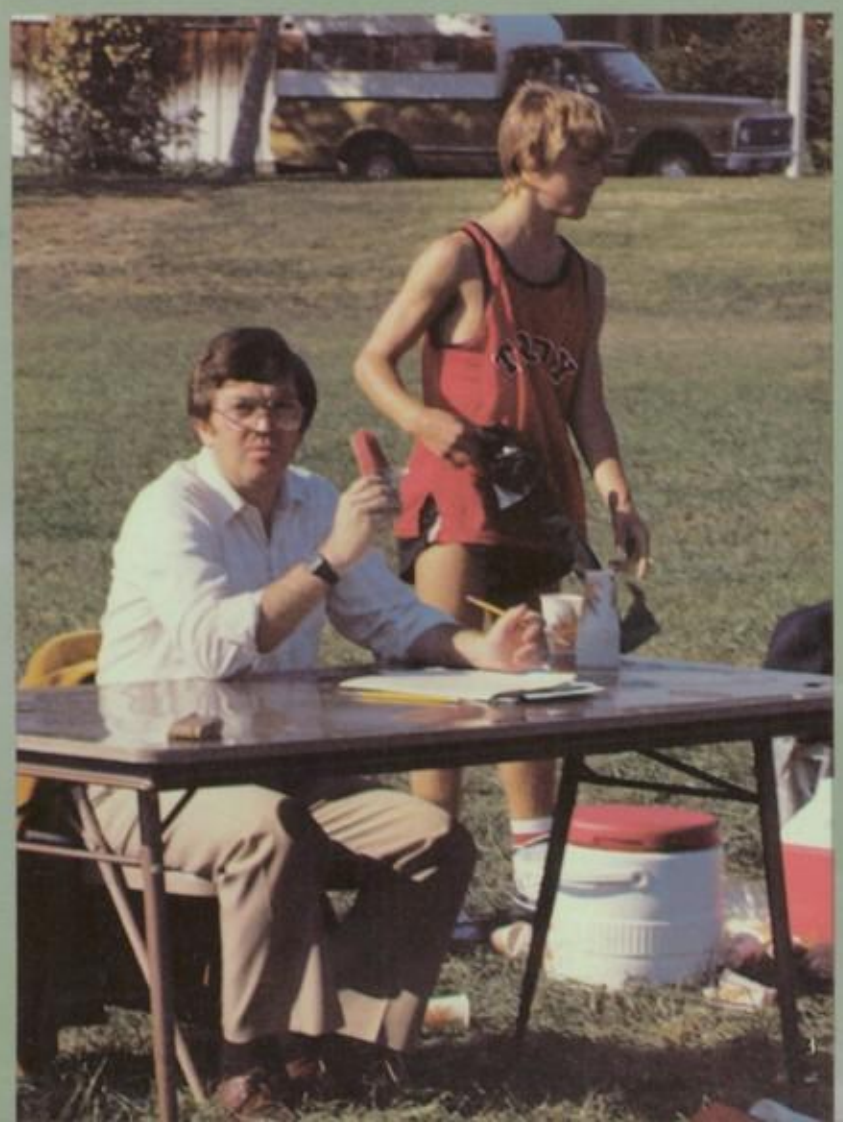
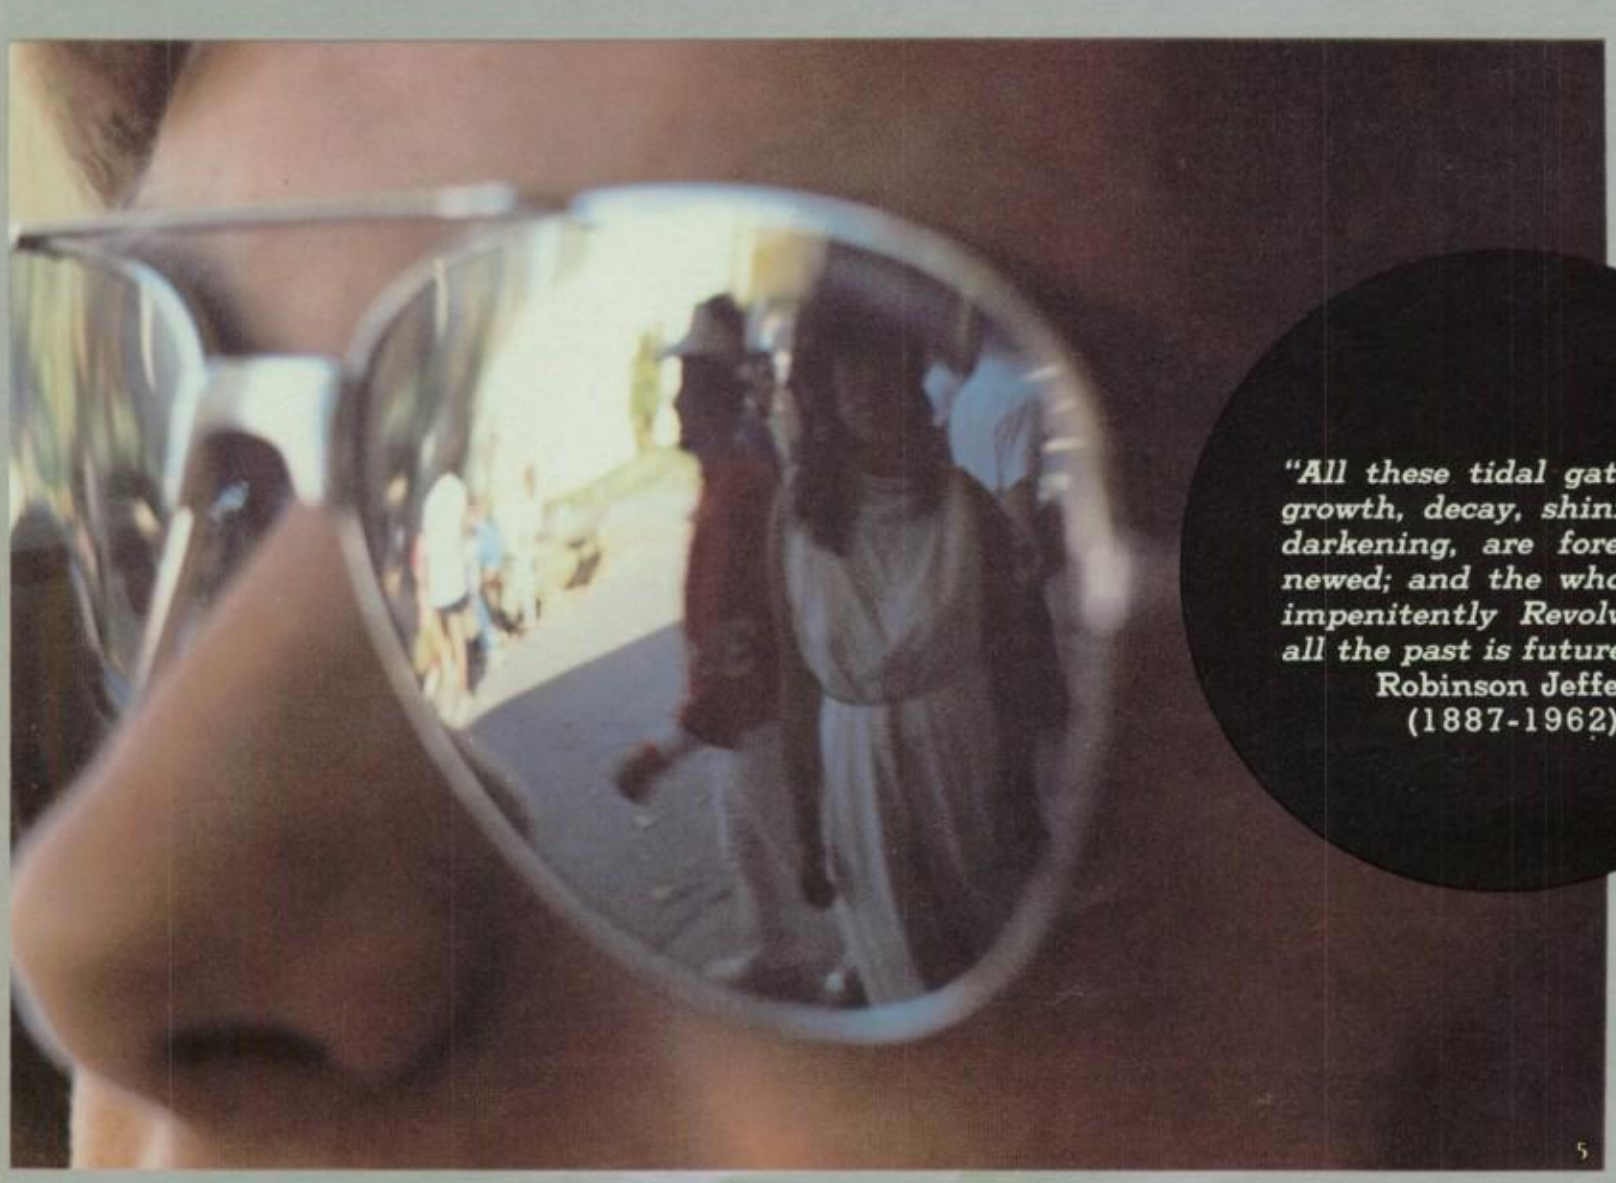
The Unending Cycle

If this campus could talk, what would it tell us? What would it say? What events could these walls remember? If the memories of joy, sorrow, anxiety, and excitement could come alive, what would they look like? The athlete crying over defeat, or laughing over triumph. Boy meets girl; sweethearts and heartache. The new freshmen, the graduating seniors, the alumni reminiscing over Troy High Years. These are difficult years of our lives, but we love and need them just the same. The next class will be completing this high school cycle the same as we completed it, and they will go through the same trials and experiences that we went through. Their ponderings will be similar to those that we thought today. We will experience what others experienced yesterday. These thoughts color the meaning of life, this unending cycle that is both new and old at the same time.



1. Lorri Barker, portraying Cleopatra, gives a seductive look. 2. Surrounded by his harem of Jackie Cardwell, Patty Diaz and Stacey Carnahan, Eric Rodeman obviously enjoys himself. 3. Mr. Atkin sympathizes for the sweaty track runners by munching on a popsicle. 4. Becquie Berck and Vince Vaccher sell shirts on Orientation Day. 5. One should always beware of mirrored glasses. You never can tell where those underlying eyes are looking.





"All these tidal gatherings, growth, decay, shining and darkening, are forever Renewed; and the whole cycle impenitently Revolves, and all the past is future."

Robinson Jeffers

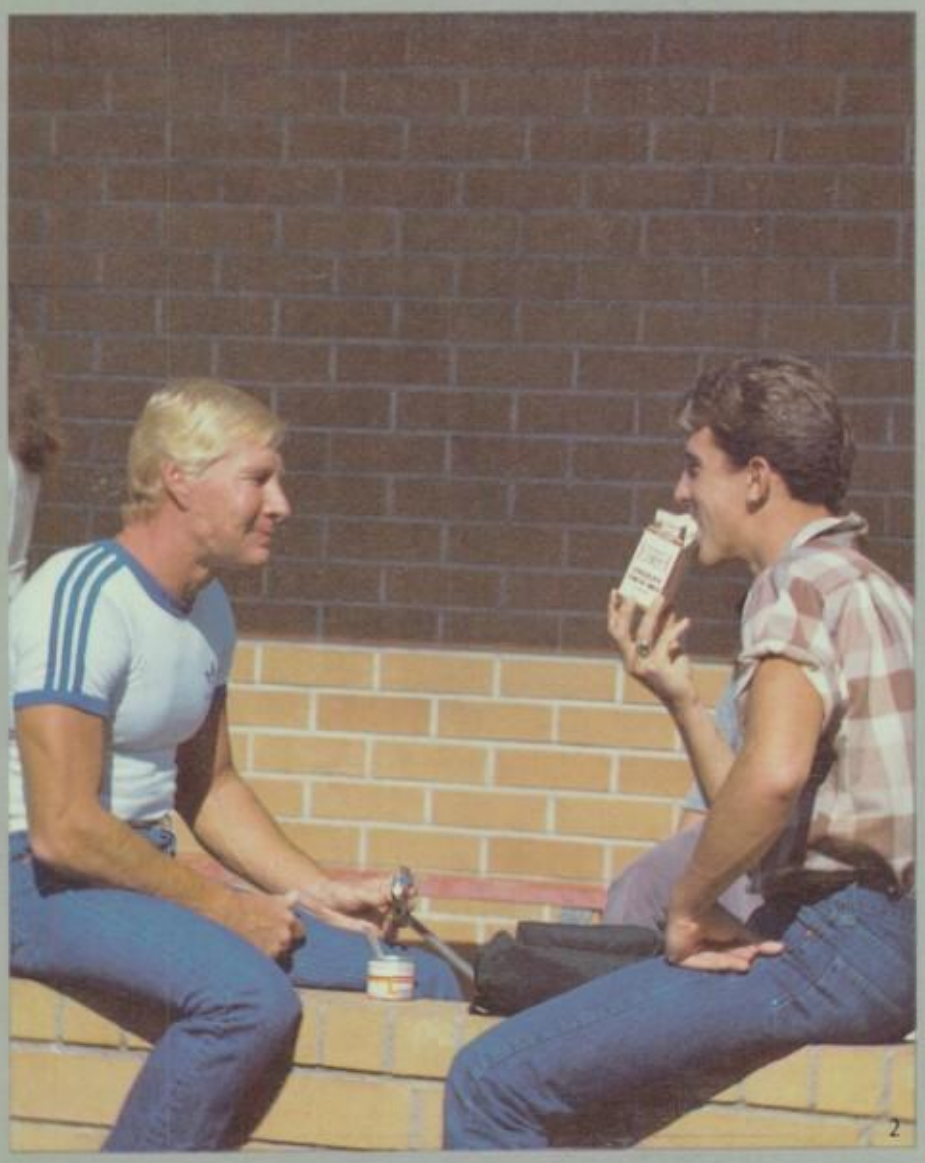
Melting Pot Of Fashion



Fashions were abundant. They ranged from the most conservative to the most imaginative. Cedar chests were opened and that old sweater that mom wore a generation ago was put into action once again. It seemed as if nothing was out of style. The 20's made its way with the short skirts and short hair, that became the punk-rock style of the century. The 50's became the latest rave with their dierndel skirts, braids and ponytails. Of course, no one could help but notice all of the wild-patterned shirts worn by the guys with their 501 Levis that have been loved by all as their old faithful grubbies for centuries. All in all, the 80's appeared to be the melting pot of all past fashions. As for the future-maybe hiphuggers and bellbottoms will be vogue for the 90's?? Only time will tell.

1. The Troy High Warrior Varsity Football Team does their imitation of the Big Fig Newton. 2. During lunch, Mr. Brenner and Jim Mansfield snack on pudding and chocolate milk. 3. Hung Vu listens intentively to some tunes. 4. Mr. Atkins, Mr. Robertson, and Mr. Looney discuss school activities during lunch. 5. A few of Troy's cheerleaders, Kelly Kinnane, Jan O'Keefe, and Kim Presh, and mascot, Dee Dee Sanchez cheer at a football game.

Old fashions please me best.
Shakespeare

Friendships Grow

A friend. The one treasured item a person can possess that won't go out of style. Instead friendships grow stronger with age and help develop the very character of every individual. Whether to go to a Friday night football game, kick back with during lunch or for a shoulder to cry on when your prince charming asked someone else to Prom. Friends were always there to bring you back to your feet and give hope to what seemed to be such a dismal future. Your friends will always be with you in that charming personality of yours, all the candid photos and especially all the memories you have of all the trying but wonderful times you shared with them all.

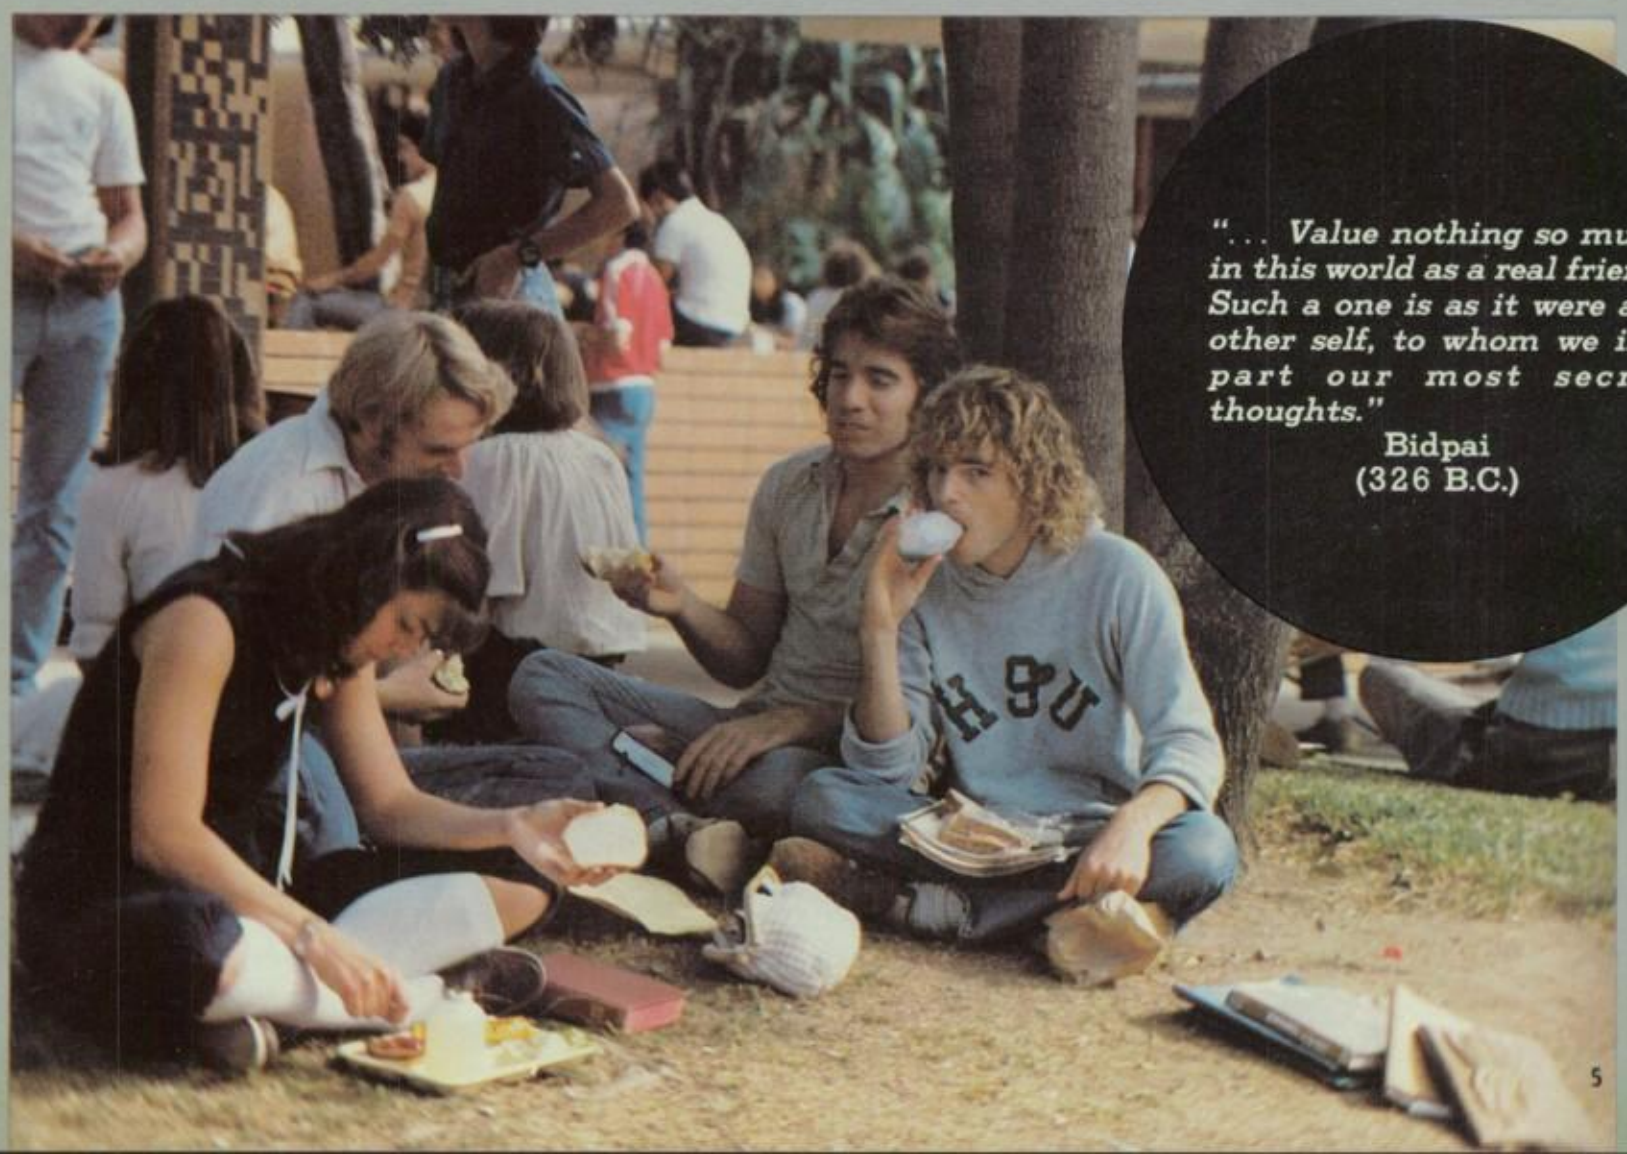
Stronger With Age

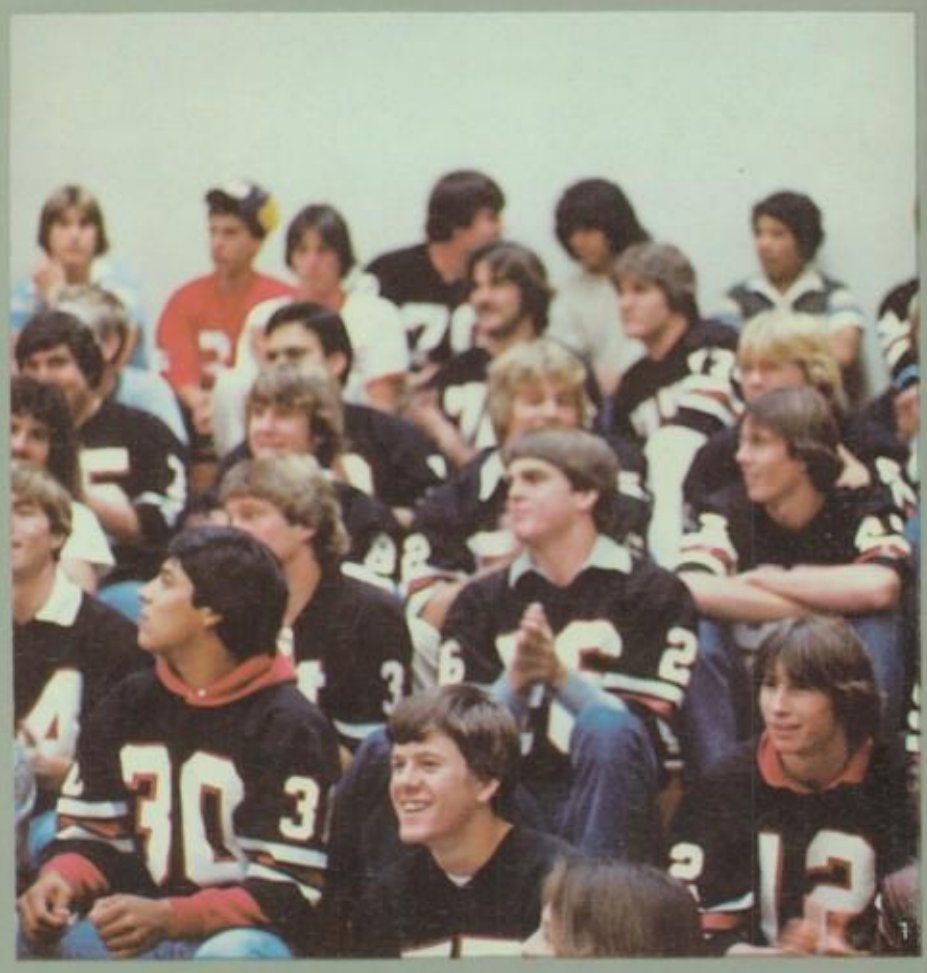


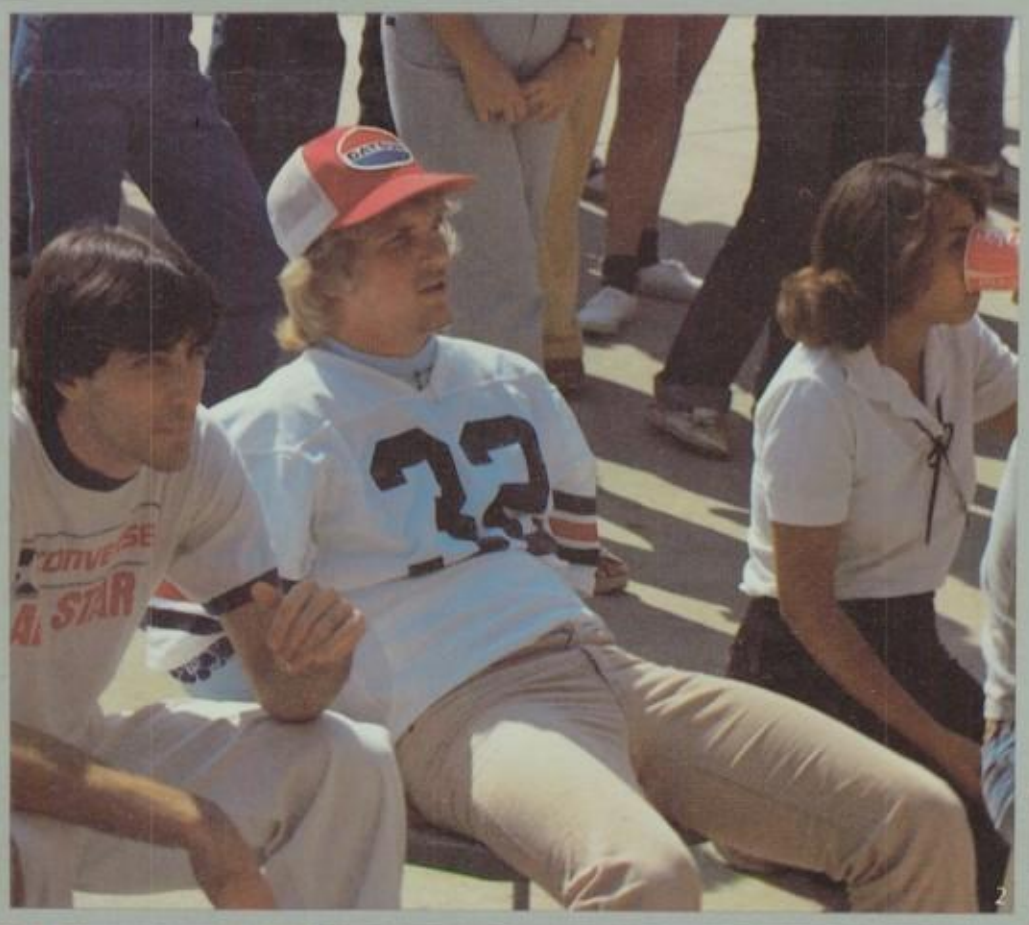
"... Value nothing so much in this world as a real friend. Such a one is as it were another self, to whom we impart our most secret thoughts."

Bidpai
(326 B.C.)

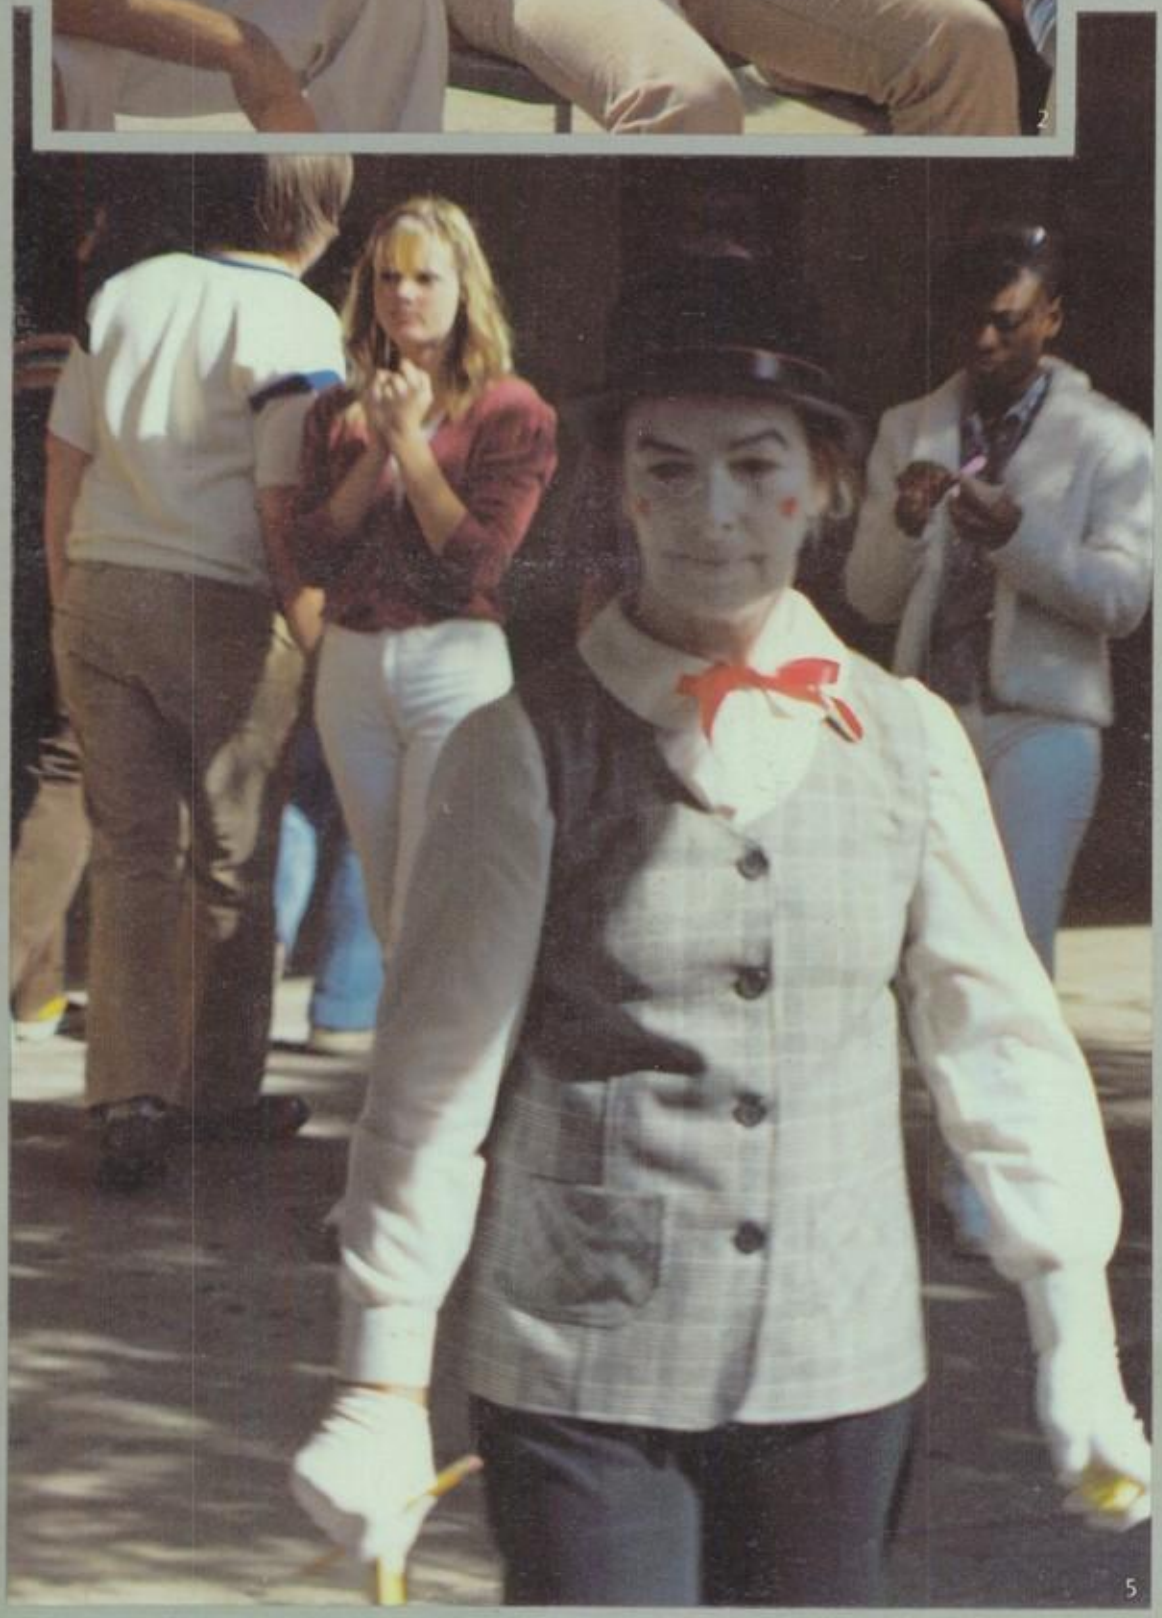
When The Music Started

The times were filled with music. Each yesterday and tomorrow held a song for us to sing to, dance to, or just to hum to. We thrived on it and loved it. It was a part of us. Music made the times come alive. It could set any mood; get us rowdy for an assembly, hyper at a dance, ease the strains from homework, and relax us after a long day at school. Music brought back memories from the past and hopes for the future. Whenever we clicked on the radio, it seemed that a song came on every time that brought back memories from something, whether it was a dancing routine for an assembly or half time, or memories of a special person who was close to our hearts. The fight songs that the band played got us spirited and gave us hope and encouragement for winning the games that we played. We've loved and enjoyed it all, from Bach to punk rock. Each had it's own style, but no matter what it was, people began tapping their heels and clapping their hands when the music started.





1. The Warrior football team eyes their favorite cheerleader. 2. Bob O'Connor, Jeff Lynch kick-back and enjoy the slab assembly. 3. Cheryl Okamura says, "I want to suck your blood." 4. During halftime, the Troy drill team stands at attention. 5. Mrs. Theibert, "Just clowning around."

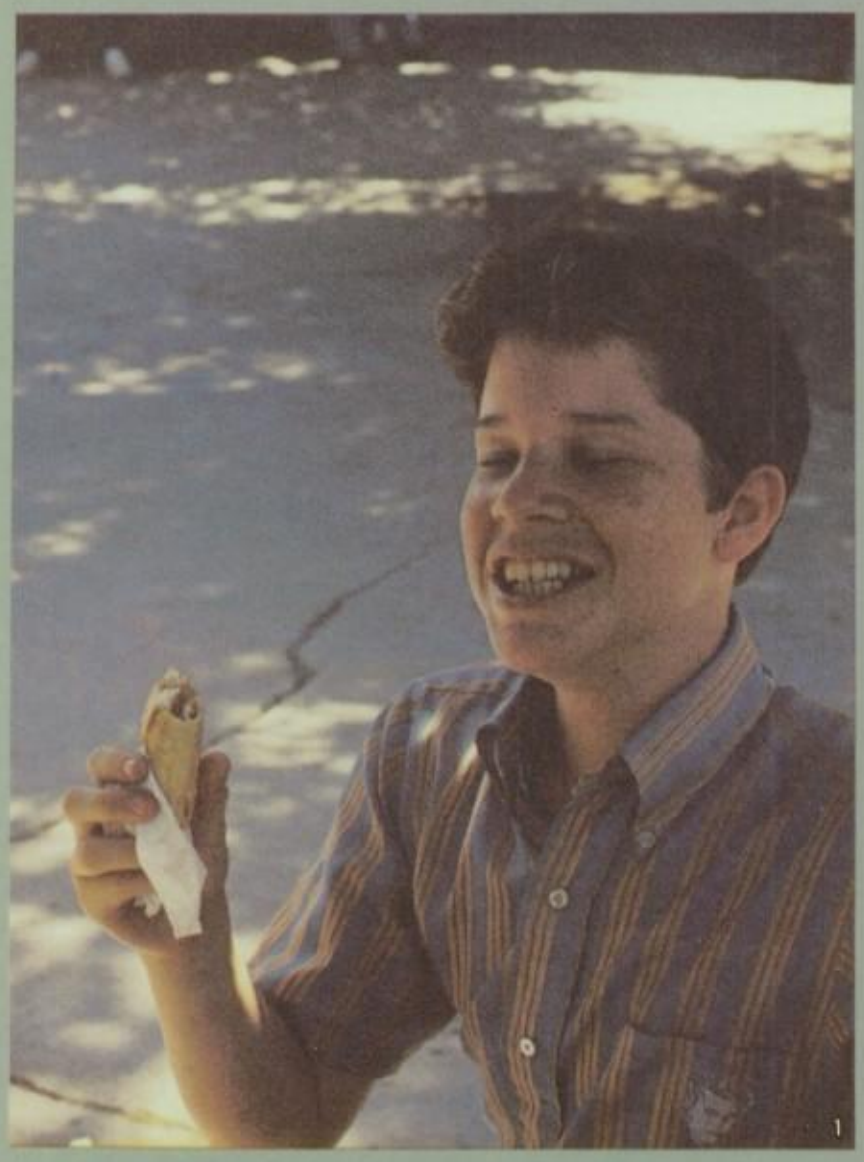


"Old songs are best-how sweet to hear
The strains to home and memory dear! . . .
. . . and rhyme
Float with us down the stream of time!

Clarence Urmy
(1858-1923)

Memories Of Today

Dances, algebra class, weekend parties, cafeteria lines, basketball games, the teachers, homework . . . They all seem so real and alive now. In years to come, it all will become our past, just as our years of grade school and playgrounds became our present past. Before that we cannot remember much. But all the same, the times we do remember remain clearly visible. All the little things that have no real significance, they're all there and could spur up a lively conversation at anytime. Just as those events have become memories, so, in years to come, these very high school years will become memories too. All of us in our separate ways have tried to live our teenage lives to the fullest. They have been some of the hardest but also some of the best times.



1. Mmm . . . Cafeteria food could make anyone smile says Andrew Simmons. 2. Partaking in a cheerleader's favorite duty, Lisa Hahn paints a sign for a football game. 3. Rich Leim announces the homecoming nominees at a slab assembly. 4. Putting on a happy face, Jessica Fabricant smiles at the camera. 5. As David Walker approaches the end of his run, he gives the victory sign. 6. Who can imagine what Tommy Shepard is looking at??? 7. Mr. Morris drinking a Dr. Pepper, becomes 'One of the Original Crowd!'

How is it with you,
Who are the poetic masters of the Art?
Have you unlimited supplies of all those well-turned thoughts,
of images precisely wrought,
stained like rare old wood reflecting richly grained perfection?
Or do you crawl, like me,
on hands and knees
exploring the attic
of mental debris
looking for something adequate among the splinters of a thought

What would we do without memories? They hold so much importance as a graduating senior, all the good times and friendships seem so fresh in our minds and it's hard to leave them behind. But the exciting unknown future awaits, and again will bring good times. Being at Troy has made us all grow so that we can face the future without fear, but it is always good to know, when that little twinge of nostalgia for your high school years strikes, you have those wonderful memories to fall back on.

Everlasting memories; there are few that are significant, yet, all four years at Troy I will remember indefinitely. Now that I look back and see how much my fellow students and I have grown up, I say, "Yeah, we're going to make it, we have the fighting spirit, the Warrior spirit, it has somehow entered our souls. We're going to prove to the cold, cruel world that this senior class of '82, by trying our hardest in all our goals will succede in the toughest game of all—life."

Being a senior at Troy really has been an important part of my life. The friends, teachers, headaches, and all the fun and exciting times I experienced will be greatly missed. I know that I, along with a lot of others, have repeated many times those famous words, "I can't wait to graduate." I know that once I say my last goodbyes to Troy High School, a lot of good and bad memories will pass before me. The friends I've made, not only with classmates but with teachers as well, will be cherished and missed as I go on to college and as I reach those goals I've set all of my high school years. Graduation is the end, but it is also the beginning. Its the end because all of my classmates and friends will each be going seperate ways, but there's a new door opening to each of us. It will be up to the individual to open that door and experience what life has to offer. The security of high school will no longer be with us, but the memories that I've experienced with my special friends will always be with me, and I have them to thank for making my senior year the best. They'll be the hardest ones to leave, but I'm thankful that we've been able to be a part of Troy and the best graduating class ever!

I'm sorry I must leave you this way, so abruptly. I'm not sure I'm ready to make it on my own, I don't even know if I want to. But the time has come, or so they say, when I've outgrown you, and must move on. You've helped me grow, and changed and shaped me into the individual I am as I leave you. I'll miss you, and the good times, even the hard times we've shared. Those memories won't be stored away to gather dust, but used as a basis for my new life, without you to depend on, to always be there. So now, as time forces us to part, with a tear on my cheek I say, "Goodbye. Goodbye Troy High School. I'll miss you." But it's time to say, "Goodbye."

High School. It seems to be a representation of an entire lifetime. When you came to Troy as a freshman, feeling slightly lost, didn't you look up to the Seniors as being so old and mature? The years just seem to drag on, and each day taking forever to end. Finally, it's your Senior year. You're at the top now. So what? Do you feel any different than you did as a freshman? What's next? You'll be at the bottom again next year! And all those fun and agonizing times seem to have slipped by so quickly, now that it's all over.

Seniors, we'll always remember our favorite table. The table that knows all our hopes and fears, all our secrets and tears, all our plans and goals, and especially all the gossip. It was there to hear us laugh as we yelled at the freshmen on the first day of school. It was there when we had our food fights and when we had to squish under the eaves on rainy days. It was there when we had last minute cramming sessions for tests and when we learned the best techniques for cheating. Yes, that table has been there for us Seniors through thick and thin. For most of us, if that table could talk we'd be ruined.

If there is one thing I can thank Troy for, it is the friends I've met here and the memories that I'll hold forever about the times we've spent together. I'll never forget the friends who were there to listen and understand my problems and continuing sagas, and who were always there with a word of comfort and encouragement, and all the fun times we spent together at the games and dances, hyper yearbook parties and lunches. I'll cherish these memories forever, even the times that were filled with tears because somehow after time they helped us to grow. I just thank God for it all, and the best friends and years of my life.

Everyone was worrying so much about tests, essays, and such. It was all so very confusing, teachers probably thought it was amusing. What should I have done next? I couldn't bare to open another text. There was always so much to do but, I never really had a clue. Being a senior wasn't easy, it made my stomach kind of queasy. But, I had to be cool — after all, 'Class of '82' will always rule!! T.D.

Four years at one place, I thought wow, can I do it? Well, I'm glad I did! Many memories will ponder in my mind now and forever. Like yelling across the quad, "Hey, Betty" at anyone I knew. Having one great friend, Vicki, to help me through. All of the gang by the trees laughing and talking about the things they see. Times to remember, and never forget with all of the people I've met, and friendships I've kept. My friends are very important to me and with great thanks to Troy I have had the chance to meet and become friends with all these great people. I just wanted to say, "Thank you" very much, my friends, and Troy for giving me this special four years to remember, and I know I always will!

The Best Four Years

Sure, we all say the same thing. "Oh, I'm going to miss Troy, our good ol' Alma Mater, and all the good times we had. These were the best years of my life." But, come on, be realistic. How many times did you cry? I cried a lot. These were hard years! They weren't all "sugar and spice." How many times did you lose out on a grade or an office or some sort of honor, simply because of a few points? I think everybody lost something at sometime. But still when you look back you have to admit, those people and incidents, all unique, played such a major part in our growth. Remember the faces by the senior table, the guys standing on the wall, Jeff Lynch and his great big smile, the girls sitting at the table giggling over something, because in years to come you'll look back and say, "Those really were great times."

A year to think, a year to say, I'll see my friends some other day. Who truly wants to leave this place? Come right out and show your face. We feel all numb; it's hard to go. Warrior pride we'll always show. The day will come when it's all past, you'll see right then, it did not last. Now I'm so old and it's all lost, I'd like it back at any cost. Reverse it now, four years behind we'll always have it in our mind.

Two Warriors, from the Junior Class, proudly display their class rings.

"Would you turn my ring?"

"How many people have turned your ring?"

"Who are you going to have turn your ring the 83rd time?"

These were just a few of the questions commonly being asked when the class of 83 received their rings. Everytime a class ring was placed upon the finger of a Junior he somehow changed from just another student to a proud Warrior. By wearing his class ring he shows how proud he is of his school and of his graduating year.

We the Sophomores of Troy High School, in order to form a more perfect student government, established Adam Kaller, Terri Hathaway, and Dana Lee as our class officers. They have insured participation in varied school activities, provided for rowdy class competitions, promoted school spirit, and secured the pride of the "Class of 84". And now, we, the Troy Sophomores have established this as the time to say, "Great job, officers!"

Dear Diary,

It's Friday and nothing can go wrong on a Friday, right? Wrong! Remember that geometry test that I thought I aced? Well, I didn't. Can you believe that I even got the date wrong? Then, at lunch, I got stuck in the back of the cafeteria line, again. But, to top it all off, I walked into biology and discovered that I had accidently left my test notes (which I had worked all night on) at home. Boy, whoever said that being a Sophomore was easy? Must have been a Freshman.

There was a whole new game being played at Troy. It was called "Pac-Man". NO, it wasn't the video version. This game involved getting to the head of the cafeteria line first and racing against the clock to scarf down that delicious cafeteria food before being caught (by the bell). What caused us to play this new game? Well, our lunch time was cut down to 30 minutes and everyone had lunch at the same time. But, even with these changes lunch continued to be everyone's favorite part of the day.

After fighting their way through the cafeteria, Joan Wagner and Paula Brower relax, and catch up on the latest gossip.

The big day in every Sophomore's life must have been the day when he finally received a certified California driver's license. A lot of hard work went into getting it. First, to learn the rules of the road and because it was required, students took a Drivers' Ed class. In class, students learned such meaningful things like 55 is the maximum freeway speed, even if there is not a cop in sight. Students also worked outside of class to prepare for the big day; they spent hours working with a simulator and driving out on the road. When all of this was completed, off they went to the D.M.V. After hours of nervous waiting and ten minutes of pro driving, out they came with their license and the question that shows that they are really licensed drivers, "Dad, can I have the car tonight?"

I'm Moving Up!

Hey, I'm a Troy sophomore,
Yeah, I'm in the big time now.
This is what I waited for,
You dig it man? Like wow!
I'm in the groove and on the move and ready for some fun-
There are some things I'd like to prove,
like '84 is number one.
You don't have to tell me I'm totally hot,
I already know it's a fact.
Brillance and maturity,
That's what I've got,
It's clear that I know where it's at.
So make way, upper classmen,
Watch out all you scrubs
There's no way that you can out-soar,
The vowing to try, hoping to fly,
Troy sophomore.

Freshmen finally became recognized when they elected an excellent group of class officers to represent them in Troy High's Student Government. Paul Difilippo presided as President; Tom Shepherd, Vice President; Eileen Cunningham, Secretary; and Joylynn Benn and Bethany Wickwire on Advisory Council. Together, they made the Student Body aware of the vitality, pride, and active participation in the Freshmen Class of 1981-82.

Troy's first assembly was a big success. The cheerleaders came in all dressed alike and ready to roar. The football players were introduced with smiles ear-to-ear, and muscles bulging. The band marched with their attire all starched and instruments glittering. During throat-to-throat class competition, the freshmen were excited and confused, but finally caught on. Everyone showed pride and school spirit as the marching band led us in the Alma Mater.

During Orientation Day, three already lost freshmen seek advice from experienced seniors, Rich Liem and Debbie Waldron.

A lowly group member is a no-class, degrading feeling known as being an unwanted freshman. For being an unwanted freshman is the lowest of things one can be. To that, every upperclassman will undoubtedly agree. But, those who somehow survived the first few weeks of school, finally began to realize there was really nothing to fear. They slowly gained in spirit, and suddenly became alive, and now no one can stop, the noble class of '85!

On Orientation Day, Mr. Atkin opens a locker for a couple of freshmen; so they won't feel totally lost on the first day of school.

Small but mighty class of '85, sticks together and strives for more.

Forever fighting to be noticed as the loudest in the crowd, wishing to be seniors, and acting just as proud.

They may be squirrely and clown around; but they never stand for a put down.

Walking through campus, with their heads held high, they always seem to be happy, with never a sigh.

They prove to everyone that they know, that they have spirit, and let it show!

Can this be "real" asks James McConnell.

Truly Out Of

Our Associated Student Body (A.S.B.) was truly out of the ordinary. There were a lot of intelligent, caring people involved in Troy High student government.

Remember the special decorating at Christmas and all the fun we had doing it? Spirit weeks? Movies in the gym? Our government made some very special things happen.

Our student body was lucky to have such a hard working government that wanted to better our school and our community.

Thank You!

Working Together

The Advisory Council was the link between A.S.B. and the Student Senate.

The Advisory Council worked with the Student Senate to relay activities and community projects to the students.

The Advisory Council was like a rope. The rope held the boat (Students) to the dock (Government).

The Students would not have been so well informed if not for the good job done by the Advisory Council.

1. Vince Vaccher flashes a big smile at the camera. 2. Pam Wrage and Jill DeGenarro hang activity posters in the quad. 3. Janet Wagner, Cheryl Spangenberg, Pam Muirhead, Kristia Kinan, and Shawna Juliff flash beautiful smiles.

The members of our Student Senate were chosen by their fellow class members.

The job of the Student Senate was to relay all messages from the government to their class members.

This was the way for the Advisory Council to be aware of what the opinions and proposals of the student body were.

As you can see, working together was the key to a good government.

Nerves Of Steel

Nerves. Yearbookers have to have nerves of steel. No one can realize the terror, the horror, the exasperating feeling that the students are subject to until one joins the Yearbook Staff. Oh, the layouts ruined with tears, the copies reduced by space and the fun had doing it! All year long the Staff cried together and laughed together. Classes were disrupted and yet this yearbook was created together with each one helping the other, pulling one another to the deadlines.

1. Tu Nguyen aims her camera at another colleague. 2. Yearbook bouncers show their muscles. 3. Sharon Fontes leaves her favorite layout behind her. 4. To eat, for Laurie Gilligan, is to survive. 5. Co-editor Kathy Fyfe works intently on layout design. 6. Co-editor Susan Viggers enters staff room eagerly.

Staying Alive

After being plagued by the loss of its advisor, the cancellation of the journalism class and the decline of class enrollment, the Oracle should have been all but nonexistent. Yet every three weeks another issue sprang up. Was it possible that the Oracle had actually endured through these endless calamities? The answer to this question is quite obvious after one meets the staff.

Twice a week, a group of dedicated students gathered after school to discuss the upcoming issues of our school paper. These dedicated students were not about to let the Oracle collapse. Instead, it is now an organization in which one can earn five units for the year. Staff members all agreed that the Oracle is "a labor of love" written to inform students and faculty with a wide-spectrum of school and social events.

With journalistic inclination the members added a new look of cartoon drawings, Oracle headlines, and layout styles. Motivated by a new advisor, Mrs. Sylvia Peterson, the Oracles staff is more determined than ever to keep the press running.

Interact Dares To Go

Interact members dared to go where no person had gone before. Who else would have been dedicated enough (or crazy enough) to undertake the job of cleaning up Fullerton Stadium on a cold, cold morning, especially after the big Homecoming game? Who else would have sat for hours on end stuffing envelopes until they could no longer lift their arms? Who else would sweat over a hot stove cooking pancakes? No one, but Interacters. And for what? Only for the satisfaction of knowing that they had helped someone through their charity and kindness.

Roughing It Out Doors

To obtain outdoor experience and an appreciation for our environment were the main purposes of the Biology Club. Their first encounter with nature was a hiking expedition trip at Joshua Tree. Everyone enjoyed themselves immensely, rock climbing and roughing it in the great outdoors. A winter trip soon followed, with snowball fights and hiking trips in freshly fallen snow. Other outdoor expeditions planned were to San Jacinto, San Gorgonio, and a special trip to the Sierras.

Besides backpacking and camp-outs the Biology Club was involved in many other activities: Such as numerous club parties, pot lucks, plant sales, and the annual Christmas mistletoe sale.

Victims Of "Progress"

The traditional agricultural field was a victim of progress. The field formerly used for "hands-on" practice in landscaping and farming techniques is now a construction site for new housing.

The changes have not hindered the club's activities or achievements. Cheering each other on, Troy's F.F.A. members placed highly in agriculture tournaments and competitions that gave them chances to show their livestock and exhibit their skills in showmanship.

F.F.A. had a successful year promoting the understanding of agriculture and the related fields of agriculture business.

Le French Connection

The French Club was a unique cultural experience. If you planned on attending one of the club meetings, you should have taken your translation book because no English was spoken. Club activities included dining together at the "Vie de France" and an international dinner, featuring foods from around the world. Club adviser, Miss Hoehn, also took members on excursions to view a series of films entitled "Focus on France."

During the Christmas season, club members demonstrated their concern for our community by contributing their time and presents to the underprivileged children of the Albert Sitton Home. The club also sponsored the French Club Scholarship, which is awarded to an outstanding senior annually. As one of the most active organizations at Troy, the French Club acted as a link between the languages and the cultures of France and the United States.

Just Roman Around

Owning a slave can be a truly rewarding experience, or so say most Latin Club members. Before they had a chance to escape, innocent Latin I students were auctioned off into captivity during the annual initiation banquet. Under threat of the whip of Mrs. Kline, Latin Club adviser, the newly captured slaves, clothed in togas, were made to perform such humiliating tasks as peeling grapes and balancing them on their noses.

Other Roman conquests included: numerous bake sales, the selling of advent calendars, a trip to the J. Paul Getty Museum, and the experience of a lifetime: a trip to Italy and Greece.

International . . .

International Club was definitely a cultral experience, involving people from all over the world.

Just to name a few of the countries the members were from; Spain, Poland, Greece, Mexico, Lebanon, Japan, Vietnam, and the U.S.A.

Not only were there people from other countries in the club, but there were people from right here in Southern California who planned to travel to other regions such as Australia, South America, Canada, and Europe, to receive the same rewards as those from foreign places have in the U.S.

A Melting Pot

The Spanish Club was a melting pot of many cultures: Japanese, Spanish, English, and many other backgrounds.

All of these people were joined together to learn and share all that they knew about the Spanish culture.

In order to know one another better, the club had a Haloween party, potlucks, skate party, and a Christmas party.

Say Cheese

Furthering the advancement of photography skills and developing new techniques were the Photography Club's main interests.

Students obtained experience by taking pictures of still life and school events, and attempted portrait photography. These pictures were used in the Oracle and community newspapers.

Snow cone sales were the Club's main source of income, which supplied them with advanced camera equipment and darkroom essentials.

Lights, Camera, Action!

A new and active club at Troy was the Cinematography Club. Film production of various styles was the Club's main interest. Its specialty was horror flicks, the craze of the year.

Attending the Australian Film Festival, making films for school showings, and weekly trips to the theater were just some of the few exciting activities.

Forward, March

Marching band included approximately 50 marchers. Of the 50 marchers, only 15 were incoming freshmen. Because of this small number, marching band had many experienced marchers and players. Under the baton of Scott Reese, marching band performed at the yearly Yorba Linda Parade. Each year, the marching band nominates their fellow marchers for section awards. The award winners were: Senior award-John Dyas; Junior award- Christine Stover; Sophomores award- John Paul Cadena and Maureen Hansen; Freshman award- Tony Panetti, and Drum Major award- Scott Reese. With all of these winners, one can be sure to see many experienced marchers next year.

The tall flag squad consisted of talented girls. Over 30 girls auditioned but only 12 girls were chosen by music director, Mrs. Parrish. Headed by captain, Theresa Tanella and co-captain, Christine McDonald, the tall flag squad performed at the home football games and various competitions. With all this skillful talent, the tall flag squad accomplished a successful year.

To become a part of Stage Band, one must audition to qualify for membership, come to school for music class at 7:30 in the morning, and practice for many long hours in preparation for concerts. This group, consisting of Troy's most advanced musicians, performed at the Christmas concert, the spring concert, and a pop concert. Stage Band members also felt that they had the incentive and ability to place in the planned competition at Fullerton College and in the music festival at Cypress College.

Oh God Play I

Green Pastures is a Pulitzer Prize winning folk play. It consists of the stories of the Old Testament as seen through the eyes of a child. The scenes move from heaven to earth and include the characters of God, Gabriel, Moses, Cain, Adam, Eve, Pharoah, and that's just naming a few. The play ultimately attempts to reconcile the God of the Old and New Testaments in the mind of a child.

A Love Story?

A Love story? Not quite, this play has a whole different plot to it. It deals with many disturbed teenagers living in a psychiatric ward, where it focuses on David and Lisa. David's fobia is that he is afraid of being touched. Lisa has two personalities, one a little girl who speaks only in rhymes, and (Muriel) a timid shy girl that only expresses her feelings on paper. Together David and Lisa struggle to find their identities and solve their problems.

There were also many other fun activities which included shopping excursions, bake sales, potlucks, and other outings. Physical Phemales

The Girl's Varsity Club had its largest membership in four years. The club consisted of twenty- five girls who managed to raise a large amount of money and support for the girl's sports program. Their fund raisers included a candy cane sale in December and a few bake sales, which helped out girls athletics. Any other fund raisers were to promote the girls athletic department. These active girls have a lot of enthusiasm in girl's sports.

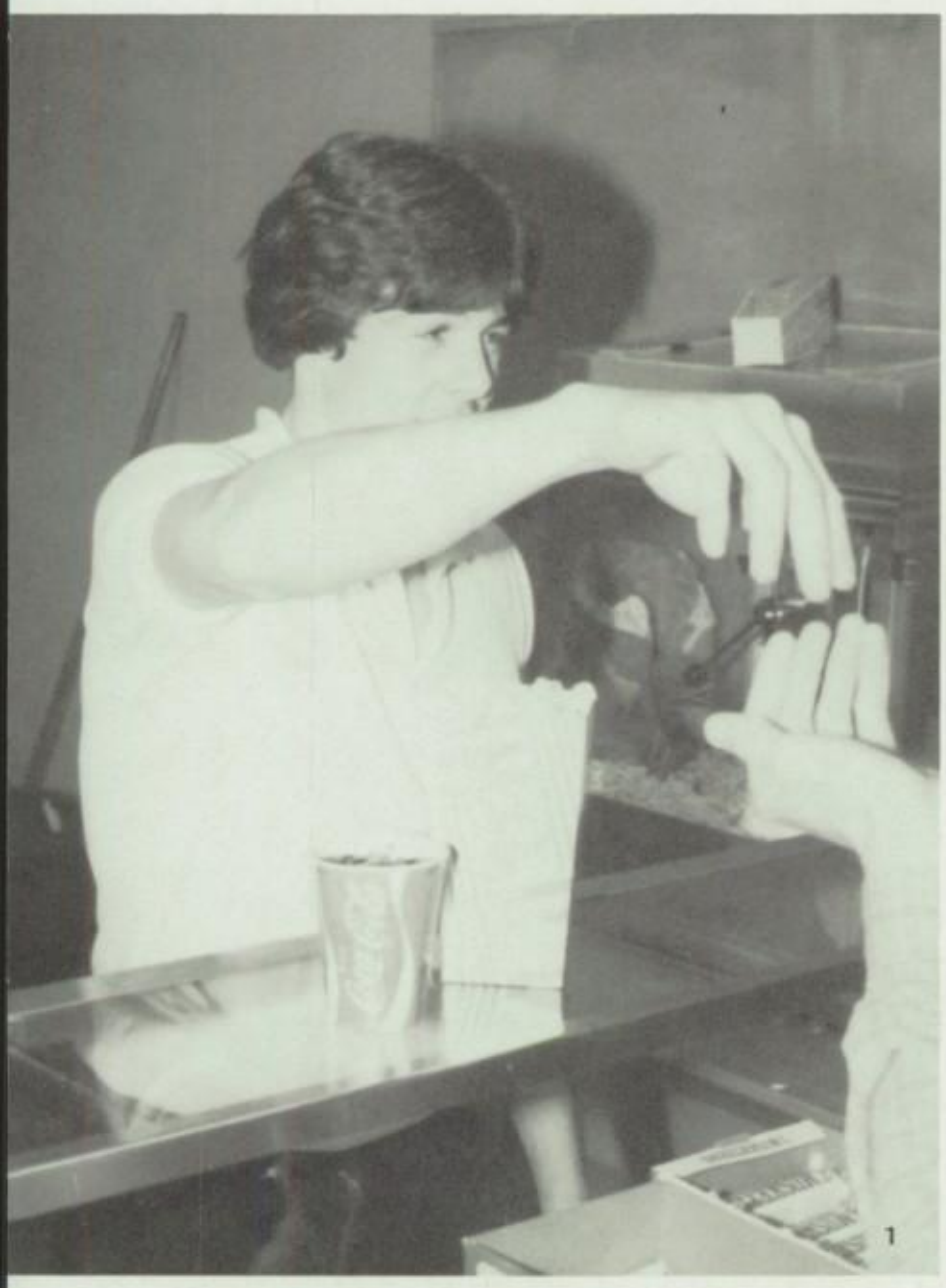
Men At Work



Any male student who participated in a varsity sport was sure to be found in the Boy's Varsity Club. They encouraged many of the warriors to participate in all sports. These athletic warriors helped to promote sportsmanship and contributed their services as members of the varsity club. They were all responsible for providing the food at all home basketball games. The profits that were made went to upgrade the athletic equipment, when needed, and to improve department facilities. Keep up the good work!

2b or Not 2b

"Who joins the Math Club?" No, not just a bunch of squares but students with dimension. The club members helped other students get to the roots of their problems by running a tutoring program. They also competed in contests in which they did a real number on other high schools. Most members joined the club because they enjoy math, but a few admitted that they just liked playing war games on the school computer. The club's success was a sure sine that adviser, Mrs. Ann Sands, knows all the right angles. It is clear that if one becomes a Math Club member, the posibilities are infinite.

Leggo My Eggo

It's survival of the fittest-otherwise known as the physics Egg Drop. In this annual extravaganza, scientifically constructed devices and shows alike were furnished with eggs and dropped from the gym. While the hopes of many students were shattered, there was a sunny side to things too. The Physics Club, unorganized by Mrs. Dixon, enabled students to do the impossible: conduct scientific experiments and enjoy themselves at the same time. Instead of just studying the laws of physics from a textbook, Mrs. Dixon inspired the club members to find out for themselves whether Galileo and Newton were right. In addition to the Egg Drop, the club activities included: a trip to the Griffith Park Observatory, a mouse trap race, and a paper boat building contest in which most students went down with the ships.

CSF Gets Active

The California Scholarship Federation underwent many changes. Along with Mrs. Heaton as the new advisor, the newly-elected officers planned numerous activities. CSF continued their traditional expedition to Disneyland. And to defray expenses for a week-end in San Diego, CSF had a candy bar fund raiser. A field trip to various museums in Los Angeles and volunteering their time at a rest home included some of these activities. This was truly the year of changes for CSF.

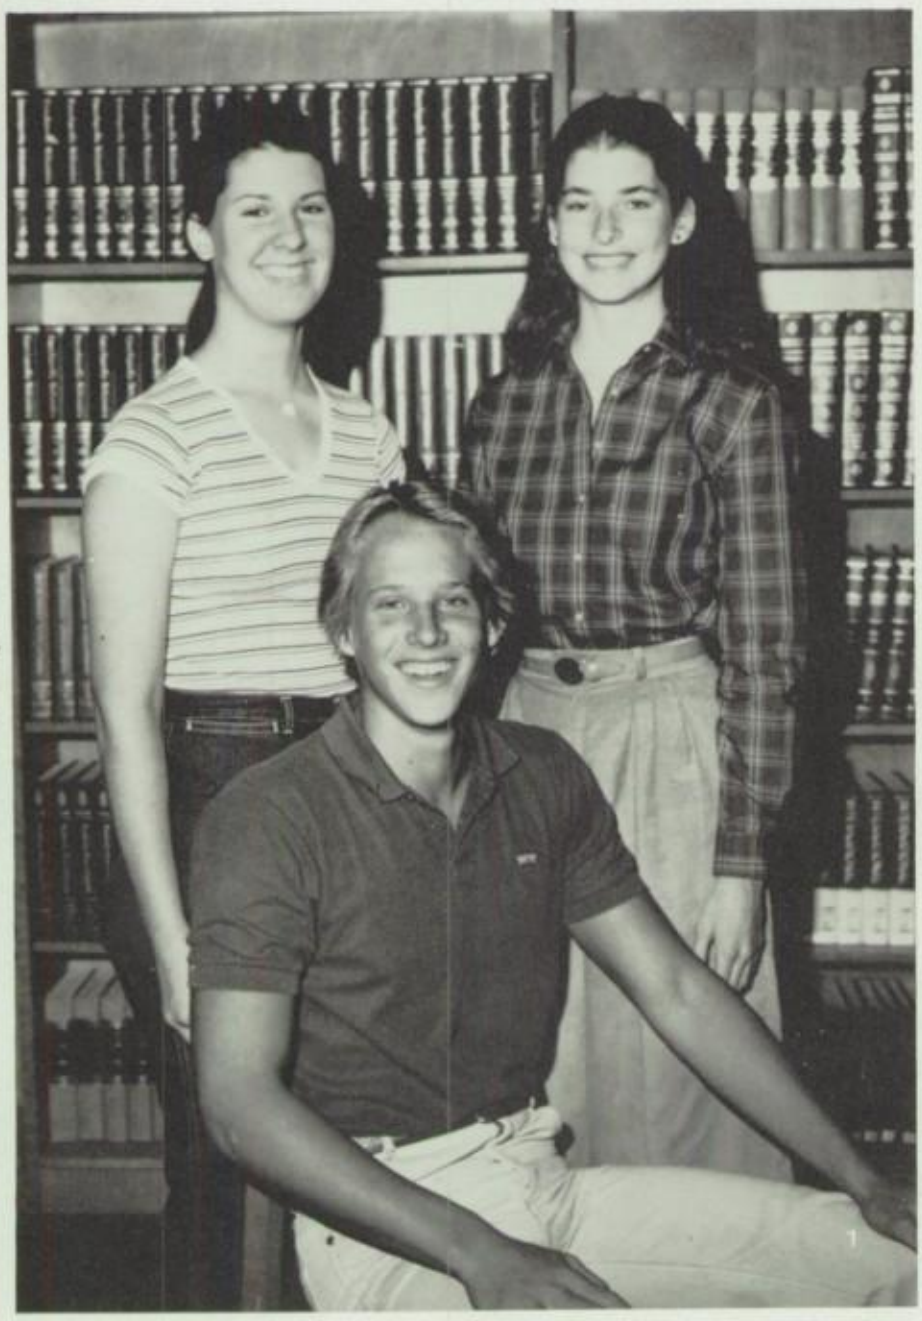
Scholars Make News



Lisa Davis, Matthew McCarthy, and Melissa Stiel were three students at Troy who became National Merit Semi-Finalists. They each took the PSAT test during their junior year and scored in the top of their class. Commended Scholars scored in the top 2%. The cut off score for the Semi-Finalists Scholars was 178. Each of these students received a letter of recommendation sent to every collee in the country. To become a National Merit Finalist, each Semi-Finalist entered competitions financed by corporations, business organizations, colleges, and universities.

On November 18, Phillip Freddolino, Robyn Garner, Erin Lagerberg, Diane Riezenman, and Doug Zelien traveled to El Toro High School to compete in the Academic Decathlon against 51 other high schools. They were each tested on different levels according to their grade-point average. These levels included; testing in conversation skills, essay writing, formal speeches, career education, successful living, English and literature, fine arts, math, physical and biological science, and social science.

FACULTY

Award Given

You've probably heard all of your teachers talking about our new addition to Troy High School.

This year we received a new copy machine. It was supposed to be the best and most advanced copy machine ever. But, more often than not, it wasn't working and needed repair.

The machine, which has been replaced, was given the "Giant Lemon Award" by Mr. Looney.

You're Never Alone

You're away from home. All your books are stolen. What will you do? Anytime you're lost or confused or just have a question, the counseling office is the place to go. Dr. Gobar and Mr. Putnam can help you with anything from college preparation to career planning. They will take the jumbled mess of PSAT, SAT, and ACT and unscramble the letters for you. So next time you're in a tight spot, don't despair. The counselors are there for your benefit. The Troy counselors. Don't go through school without them.

1. Pat Putnam gives Mr. Morrison some counseling. 2. Dr. Sally Gobar scans over college transcripts. 3. Judy Haag checking up on Absentees. 4. Carol Arf keeps busy. 6. Mrs. Smith is always around to help.

Unorthodox

Foreign language students are often seen sitting in a classroom, repeating whatever the teacher says. Fortunately, Troy's teachers are enthusiastic and have better ways of educating their students outside of the classroom. For example, Spanish classes have attended plays like "Evita" and "Yerma." French students learned their numbers by playing "Bingo" and learned words through spelling bees. Many Latin students went to Rome every Easter vacation. These may not be the most orthodox ways of learning a language but they sure were fun.

1. Mr. Lasswell glares at one of his math classes. 2. Posters portray events for language students near and far. 3. Bob Critchfield studies with his feathered friend.

What If . . . ?

Have you ever thought what the world would be like without math? There would be no clocks because no one could read them. No electronics or chemistry. No pinball, or Astroids. No banks, books, or speed limits.

I thought about this and saw how hard life could be without Math teachers. Thank you, Math Department.

Cliff Notes

You know that history was made this year when ... The Space Shuttle Columbia voyaged into space for the second time, bringing outer space travel closer to reality. The Prince of Wales married a uncommon English lady. Troy volleyball players made their way to C.I.F. playoffs; and so did water-polo. Troy conformed to the district's schedule.

1. Acting out another funny joke, Mr. Fournell looks shocked after receiving no response. 2. Mr. Weiner passes through the quad. 3. Mr. Rogers lopes merrily to class. 4. Mr. Bremmer strolls off to his next class. 5. Mr. Watson heads for the office.

Too Hip!

Have you ever wondered how English teachers really talk when they're not teaching a class? Well, here's a conversation that was accidently overheard.
"Hi ya, Blanche. So how's life?"
"Pretty cool, Boris. I had a totally hot weekend."
"Awesome. I can relate. I just sat around "vegging" all weekend".
"Oh, heavy bummer. How're your classes?"
"Far-out, except for all those squirrely scrubs."
"Yeah. I catch your drift. They're kinky."
"Too bad they couldn't be cool like the vogue seniors."
"Yeah, I'm hip. That would be so rad!"
"Well, gotta go. Catch ya later."

Versatile Teacher

Did you know that Mr. Hallberg is a talented Landscape Architect and an adept sculptor as well as our versatile art teacher at Troy High?

Mr. Hallberg, who has published biographies of his extensive art research, has designed metal sculptures that have been in many art exhibits around the world. Some of his metal sculptures are displayed in Troy's home town of Fullerton.

Dedication

For eighteen years now, Mr. Thomas Moore has played a great part in the success of Troy's Drama Department. He has been teaching here ever since Troy High School came into existence. Due to his efforts, Troy High School has one of the finest Drama Departments in the District.

Just The Beginning

When most students think of P.E., they think of a course in bouncing soccer balls off their heads and endlessly swatting at badmitton birdies. But there's more to P.E. than that. During a class, a student can get the good feeling of releasing all his excess energy and the even better feeling of knowing that there's no homework. The main emphasis of the program is to present several activities to the students so that he may focus in on one which he enjoys and pursue it. In this way, the sophomore year of P.E. can be not an end but a beginning.

Science and Health go together just as well as "The birds and the bees and the flowers and the trees." Whether its from parenting a baby egg in Health class or to dropping an egg from the gym roof in Physics class. Science and Health are what every student looks forward to. Science at least must be interesting for Mrs. Dixon's last words are, "Physics is Phun!" So don't walk, but run, and sign up now for your Health or Science classes. Today!

Shh . . .

If you want to capture someone's attention, whisper. But not too loudly because the library seems to be the place where students escape the mass confusion of the quad. The library always seems to be full of students finishing homework or just checking out books.

Recently the library increasedin all areas. Mrs. Covert was proud to announce the school had purchased two new "readers" that will be of great importance to the students. Also the library, for the first time, has Vietnamese/English dictionaries, and books of Vietnamese poetry.

And these are only a few of the many interesting things at the library. So next time you're hanging around by the 300 halls, check out the library.

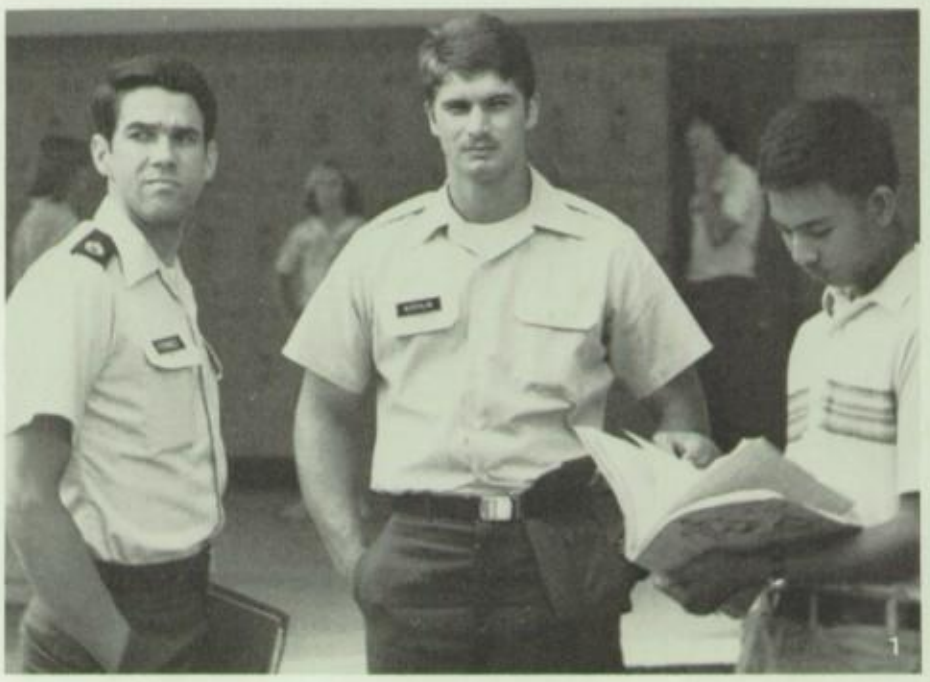
Were you enrolled in a business course? Well about 425 to 450 students were enrolled in business classes. There was a variety of different classes taught by Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Heaton, and Mr. Durfee. Some skills available to Troy's students were secretarial, general office, and clerical skills. They received 9 new IBM electric typewriters this year, and will be receiving a special typewriter in June.

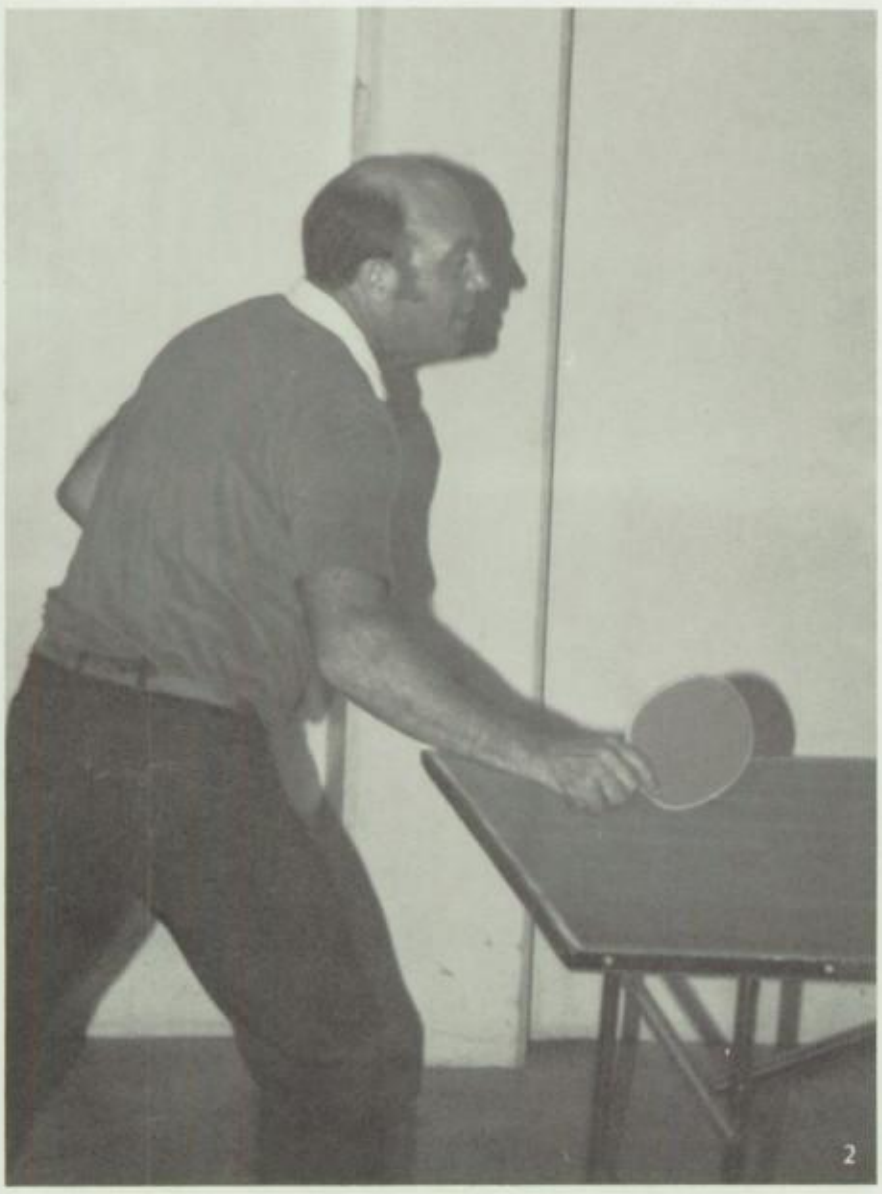
C.C. Of "Milazzo" Linked To Survival



Step inside the career center sometime and you'll find Norma Milazzo working busily among mysterious boxes, files, and papers. Her job is to make these resources a little more understandable to students. She also helps them prepare for the real world: life after high school. They can learn about things like social security and income tax before they have to deal with them. Mrs. Milazzo considers herself fortunate in her career; she feels she gets as much out of it as those she helps. So for a smile and quite possibly a job, check out the Career Center, and Mrs. Milazzo!

1. The recrutiers have just invited Ernesto Cruz to visit their "Career Center." 2. Mr. Doest keeps in shape . . . to keep up with his students! 3. Mrs. Bobo is looking out the window, wishing she were outside. And we thought only students did that!

Resource Program For A Better Future



It used to be that students with learning disabilities, emotional problems or auditory problems were set apart in special high school programs. But after they left high school they were no longer considered "Special"; they had no skills to offer in the job market. So it was made law that these students must be "mainstreamed," not kept separate. The purpose of our resource program is to have the student fully integrated with his peers by the end of his four-year stay here. The resource specialists and aides try to personalize education for the students. in various classes. If a student has a special difficulty, such as an auditory problem, a resource specialist may request that a teacher pay special attention to that student, for instance he may seat the student in the front of the class so he can hear better. With the help of our fine resource staff, these students will be "special" after high school: not because of any disability, but because of their abilities.

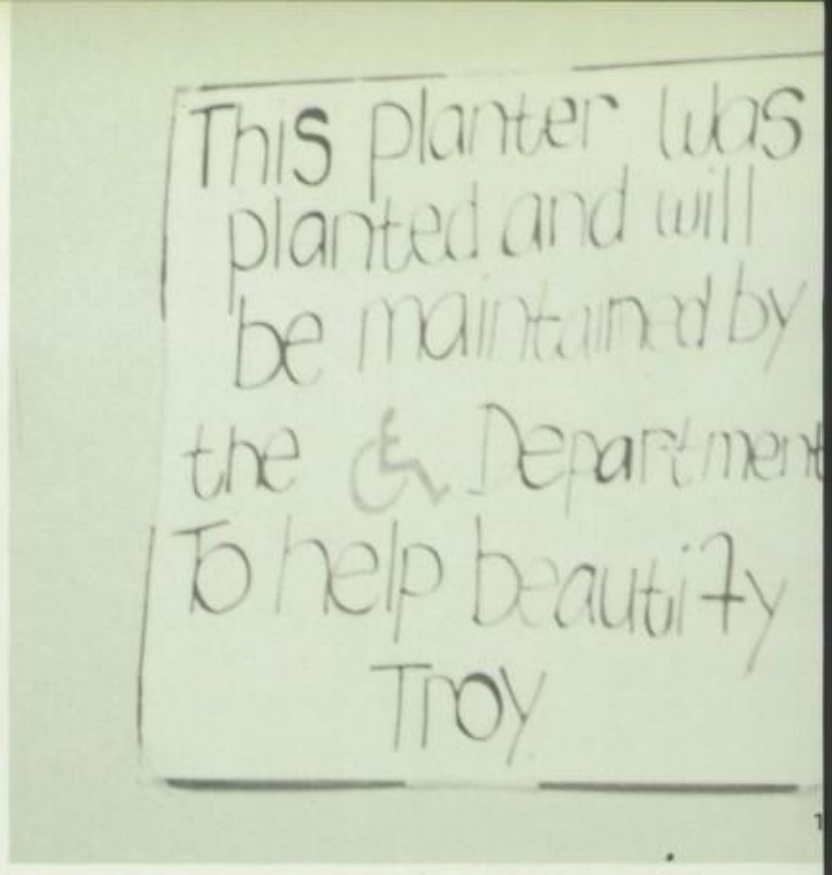
Green Thumb

You've probably walked past the planters in the halls hundreds of times. Did you ever really stop to think who planted and maintained them? The answer is the O.H. department. O.H. students have added plants to the planters which would have otherwise been filled with dirt and trash. Now, stop and ask yourself, "What have I done to improve Troy?" Probably not much, but by giving yourself as these students have done, you can add that extra touch which makes school more enjoyable for everyone.



1. The sign says it all. 2. Jon Fox watches the action on the football field. 3. The plants keep the trash from growing. 4. Robyn Hallet is "ready and rolling" for class. 5. Is Alyson Adams really the angel we think she is? 6. Bill Warrington and Jon Fox work together on a project.

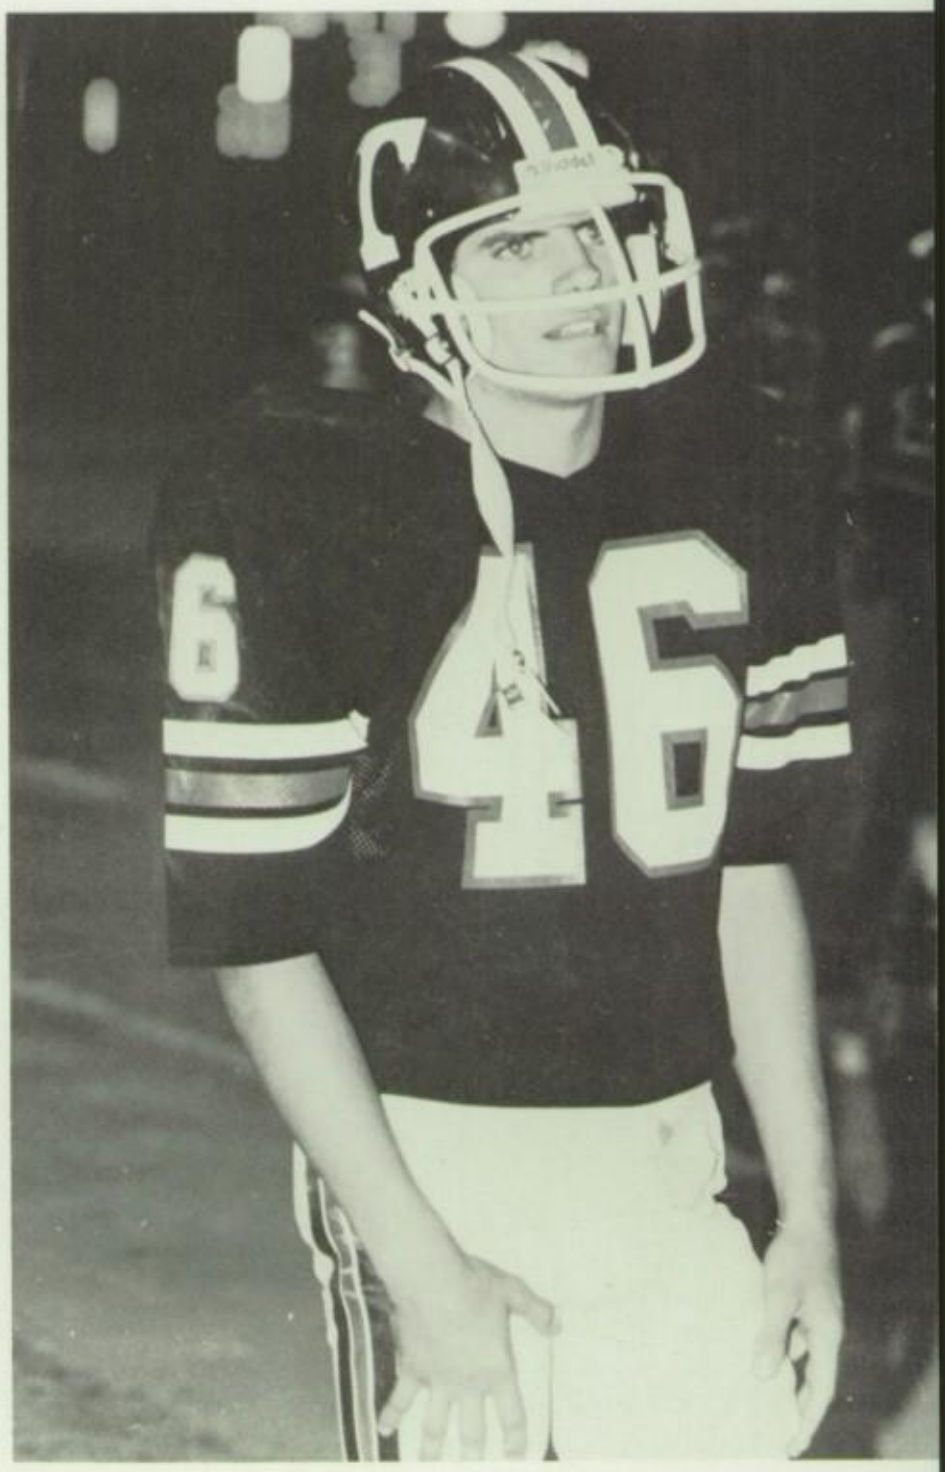
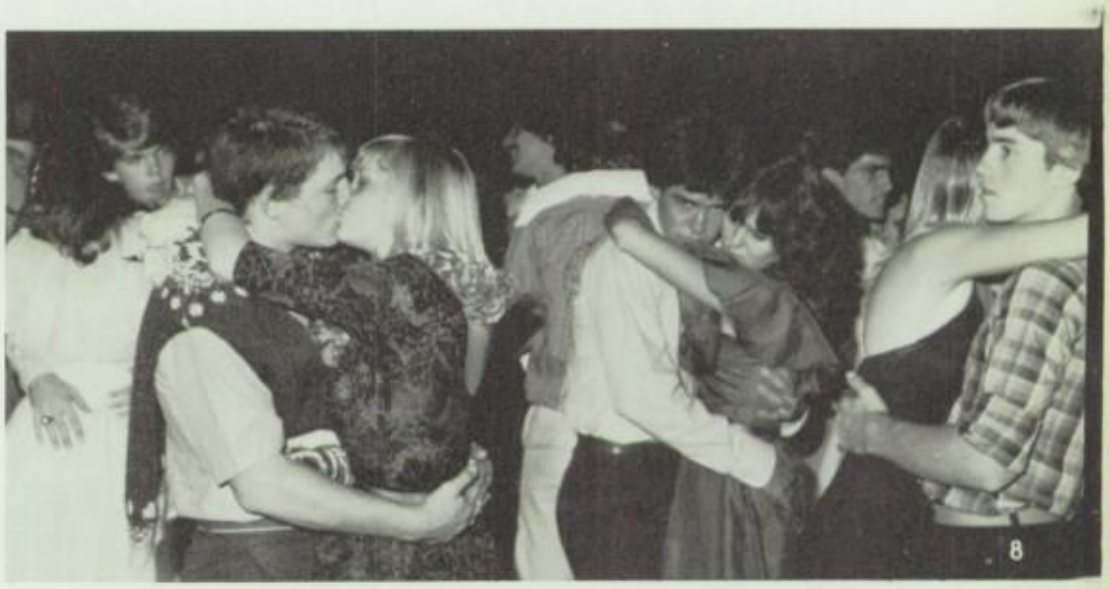
ACTIVITIES

Happily Ever After





1. As pretty as a princess, junior attendant Jill Epperson stands in excitement. 2. Standing on the sidelines #46, our homecoming King Kevin Walsh. 3. After being crowned, senior attendant Bonnie Hayes smiles brightly. 4. Riding around the track, freshman attendant Bethany Wickwire and sophomore attendant Dana Lee, are displayed. 5. While listening to the band Evergreen, Lori Morgan and Bobby Vogel dance to the beat. 6. It's just between Rich Zahn and Maria Mercado. 7. Signing into the visitor book are Janell Wilsey and Kamal Shamsi. 8. Couples thoroughly enjoy themselves while dancing to the mellow sounds.

Once upon a time in a land far away (Fullerton), there lived a handsome King (Kevin) and a fair Queen (Kelly), in their beautiful castle of dreams come true (Troy). There was a great ball (Homecoming dance) arranged that night, and everyone, both high (seniors) and low (freshman) was invited. The King (Kevin) and Queen (Kelly), and their beautiful court (Bonnie, Jill, Dana, and Bethany) proceeded in, and the ball started. With of course, the help of fairy godmother's magic wand and bibbidi, bobbidi boos! Everyone waltzed (boogied) to the swelling music of the royal orchestra (Evergreen) into their land of dreams, until the clock struck twelve. There, they lived happily ever after, you may be sure. And, 'Just Between You and Me," I'd say it was a homecoming dance come true.

Coming Home

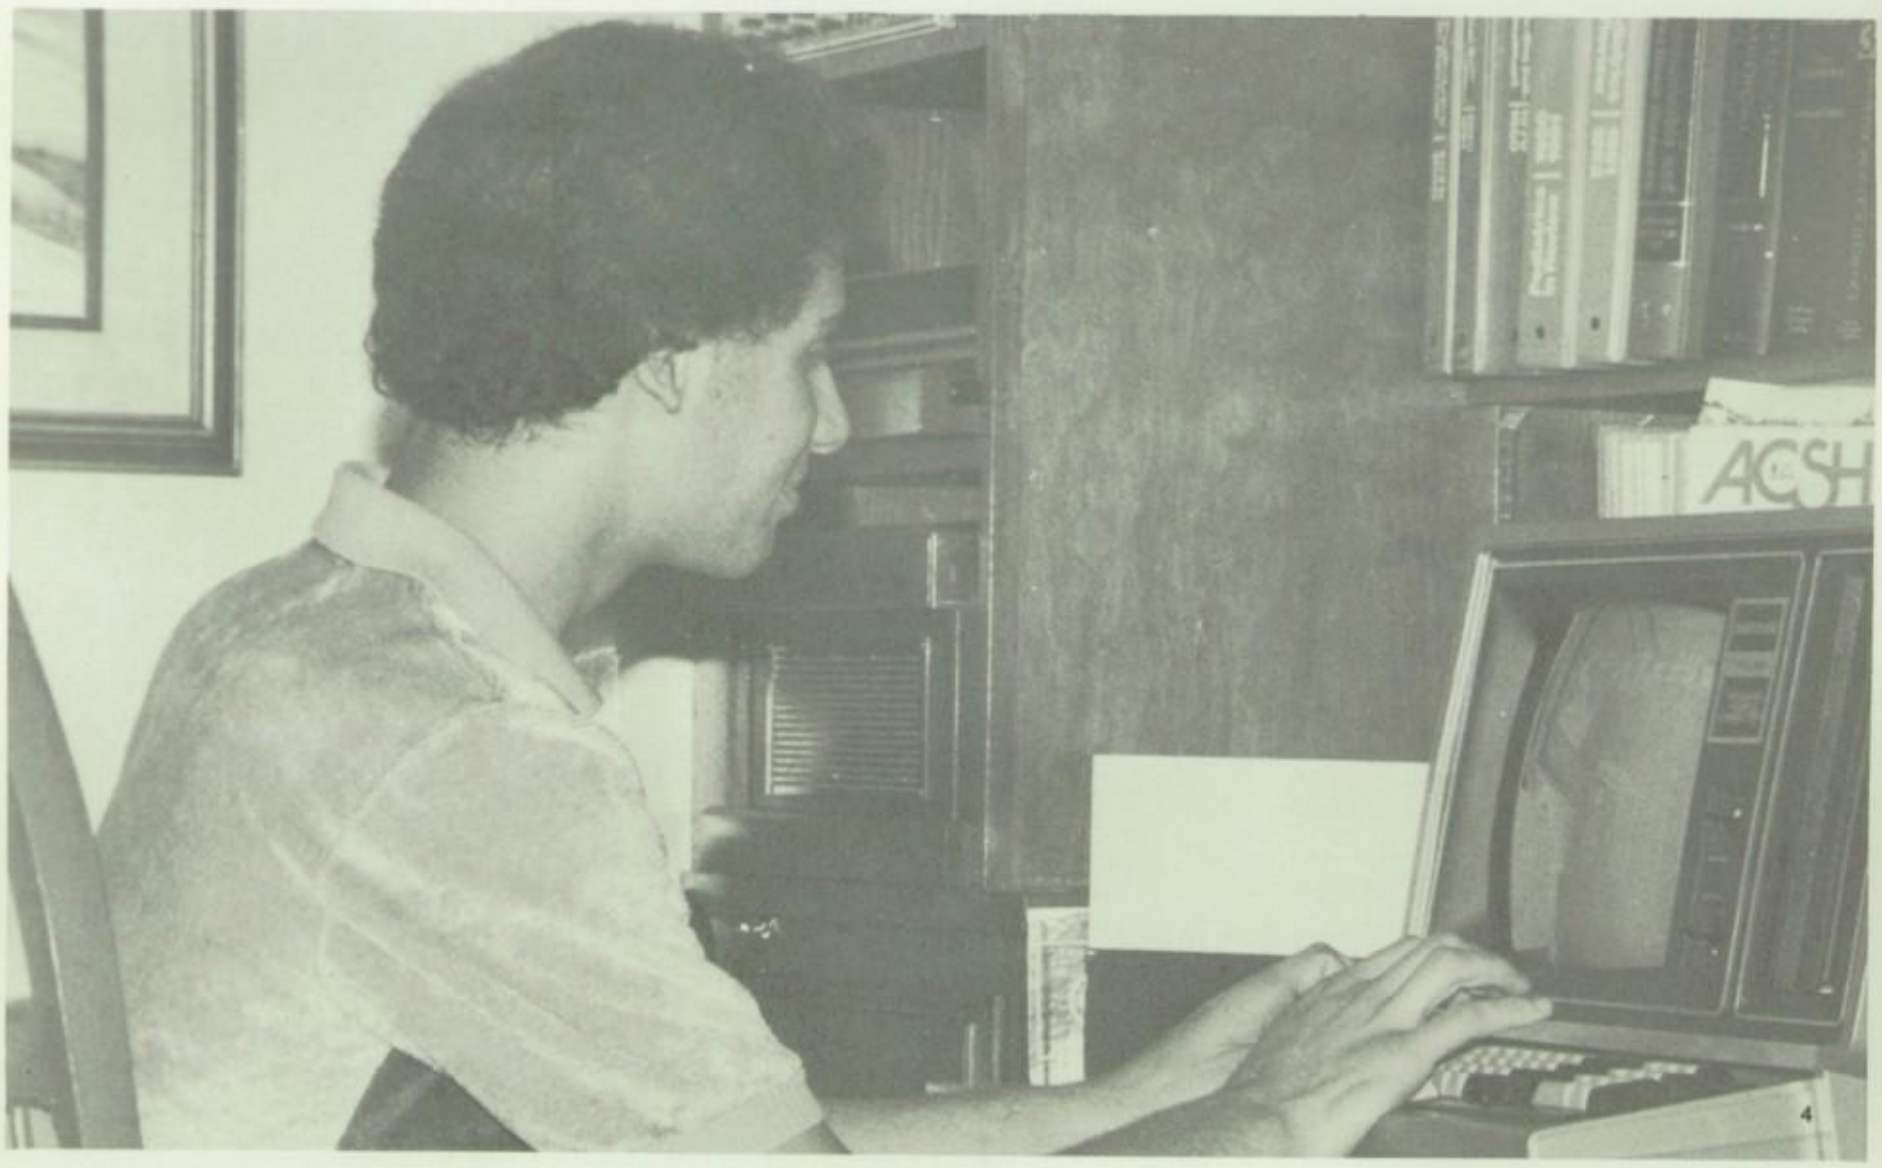
Homecoming game! Who watches it? Maybe a few Troy Warrior fans, but, for the most of us, it was a time to reminisce and to remember old familiar faces. For Troy, present and future students, watching the field and knowing the names of Troy's starting lineup were the most important parts of the game. But, for those returning alumni, the homecoming game was for seeing old friends, remembering old times, crying and laughing, and pretending, for just one night that they were back in time-in high school where college and real life seemed so distant.

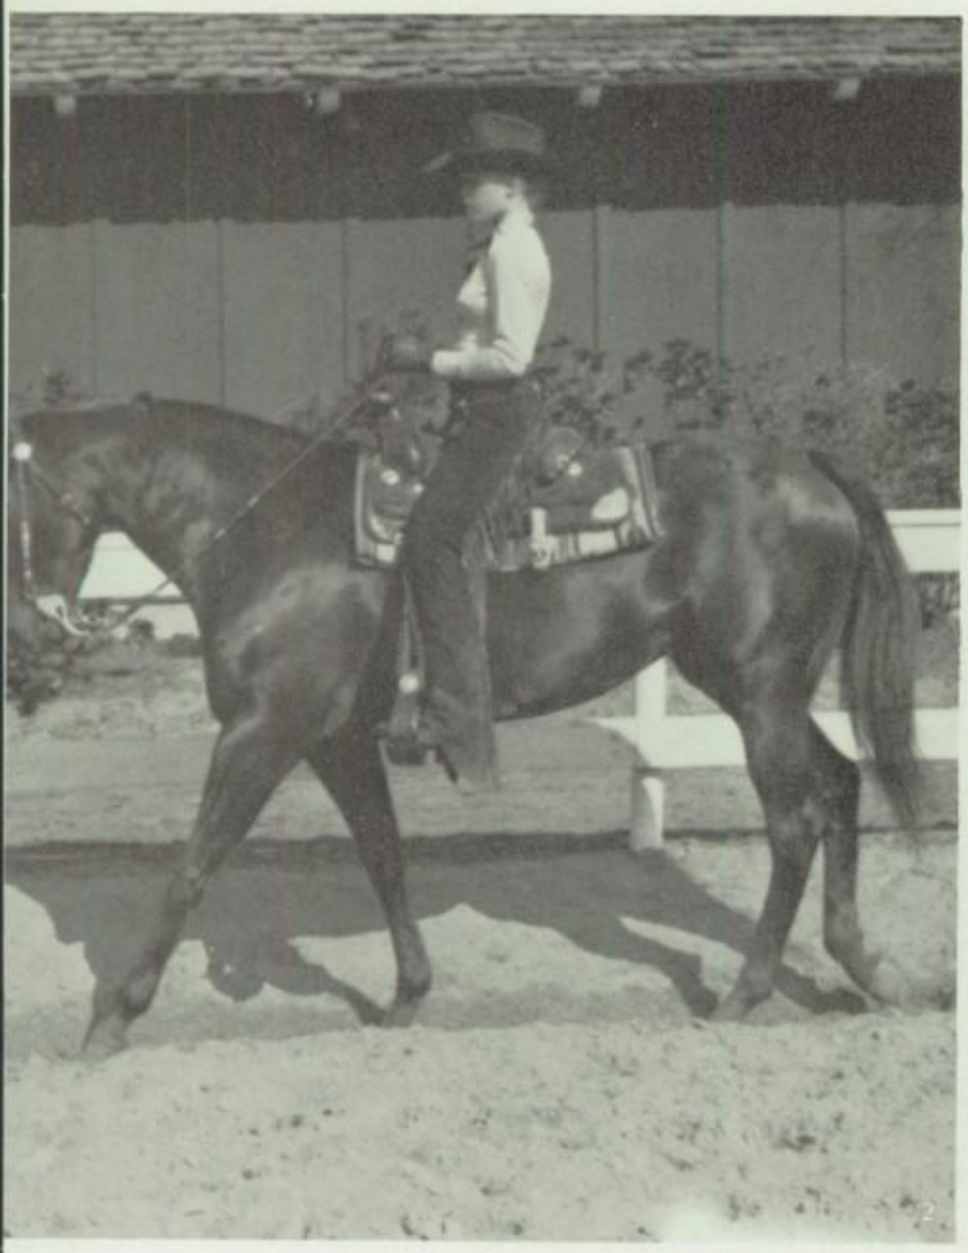
1. It's definitely been a fun dance for John Walsh and his date from Eldorado, Kim Doosy. 2. "Shoes off to you!", says Maria Mercado, Patricia McGuckin, Kim Murray, Tish Suter, Pam Creer, and Rich Zahn. 3. A scrumptious cake that's just between you and me. 4. Homecoming King, Kevin Walsh, and all his princesses Bethany Wickwire, Dana Lee, Kelly Kinnane, Jill Epperson, and Bonnie Hayes. 5. Homecoming Queen, Kelly Kinnane, and all her buddies, Cheryl Spangenberg, Patricia McGuckin, Mitra Rozell, Pam Muirhead, Peggy Difilippo, and Shawna Juliff, who are just as happy as she is. 6. Homecoming Queen Kelly Kinnane, escorted by handsome Kurt Beamesderfer. 7. Pepped-up players sing the alma mater. 8. Our spirited cheerleaders, Lori Morgan, Mary Jane O'Brien, Kim Presch, and mascot Dee-Dee Sanchez, and the returned alumni.

To Remember Old Times

Is There Life After . . . Test?

If a Troy student was asked this question, the profound answer would be "Yes!" Teachers may drain them of energy by examining their knowledge. Nutrients may be sapped from their bodies by pop quizzes and homework. But, as soon as that final bell tolls, a metamorphisis takes the school in its grasp and the students become vibrant, alive, and zestful! So, what do they do with all this wild and crazy energy? They pour it into millions of things! Athletics, Bee-keeping, Crochet, Dungeons and Dragons, Elephant hunting, Fox hunting, Guitar playing, Horse riding, Internships, Judo, Karate, Lounging, Motocross, Nothing, Octopus wrestling, Photography, Quarreling, Rock climbing, Scubadiving, Tightrope walking, Unicycling, Vaulting, Watching T.V., (and X-rated films), Yodeling, Zzzsleeping. What a variety of things! It's everything from A to Z? Such a diverse student body with such a kaleidoscopic life!





1. Rounding a turn, Chris Flemming shows his talent. 2. Audrey Bishop proudly displays her horse in a recent show. 3. Even while he works, Tom Alig carries a big smile. 4. Programming a computer, Lawrence Levy waits for results. 5. Many-talented Maria Mercado demonstrates her musical abilities. 6. Posing on toe, Debbie Waldron waits for her cue to enter the stage.

Here's Looking At You, Troy!

If a person from another school should ask, "What do Troy students do?"
We could answer him with most assurance,
"Why, everything, don't you?"
Warriors play sports of all kinds,
And even go for archeological finds.
But you'll never find one out of his mind,
Unless he's playing with a Rubik's Cube.
Troy students just relax at home,
Or play 'D & D' and take the part of a gnome.
Or sometimes you'll find one shining his chrome,
On his brand-new '56 Chevy.
Horse-showing is a favorite of ours,
Music some kids play by the hours,
Some frame stained glass for the windows of towers.
While others find scuba-diving delightful.
"So you see," we will say to our dear foreign friend,
"Troy people are great; they're on top of the trends."
And our friend, well, he'll meekly turn his face,
And say, "Man, I wish I could be in your place!"

1. Bob Critchfield attempts a dangerous climb up the face of a rock. 2. Conducting band with a smartness that shows, Scott Reese gives a signal. 3. What's New?

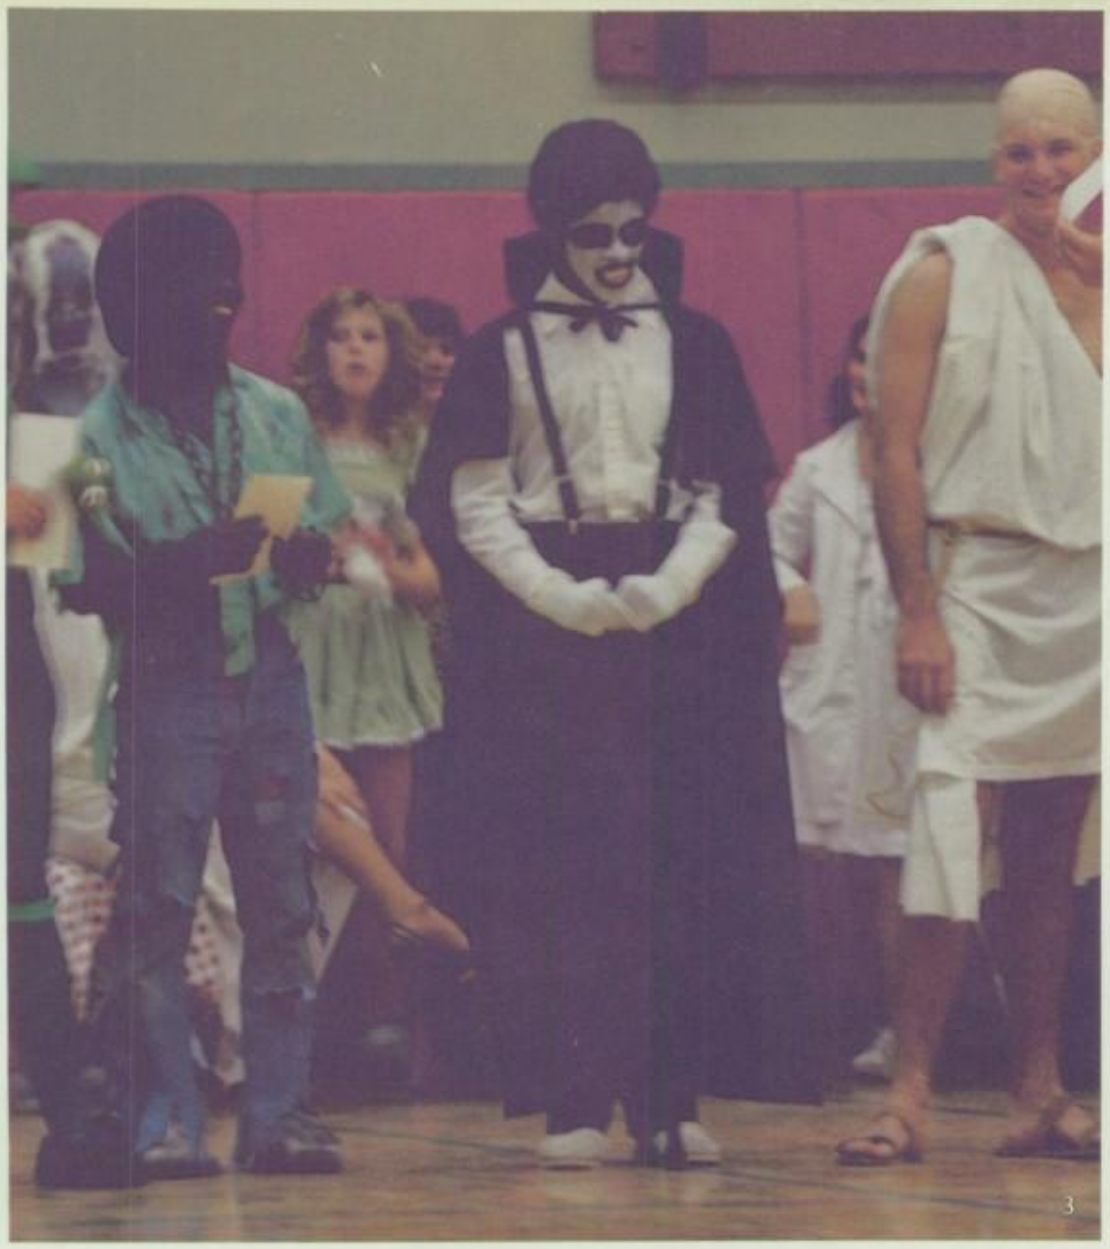
World events effect all of us. Through the media we can see what's going on next door as well as events a half a world away. We witnessed such things as the unsuccessful assassination attempts on President Reagan and Pope John Paul II, as well as the famous wedding of Lady Diana and Prince Charles. Closer to home, students were rocking to the Rolling Stones and witnessed the start of a new school holiday, Jan. 15 which honored Martin Luther King Jr. But the biggest issue with Troy's own students was the start of a new school-schedule because of a shorter lunch period and longer classes it was an unfavorable change and made many students unhappy. Keeping in touch with world events is very important, as it can cause us to change but change is a way of life and makes the world seem exciting and new everyday!

1. Because of the new schedule, Troy's campus became quiet and deserted during 5th period. 2. Unaware of the attept by an assassin, Pope John II greets his many faithful followers. 3. Mick Jagger and the Rolling Stones rock the southland to 90,000 excited fans. 4. A very happy Sandra Day O'Connor awaits to be sworn in as the first woman appointed to the Supreme Court. 5. The undisputed world welterweight champion Sugar Ray Leonard holds his hands high after defeating Thomas Hearns. 6. After the royal wedding Lady Diana and Prince Charles are carried off in their horse-drawn carriage. 7. In Kansas City 113 persons are killed after a walkway collaspses in the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

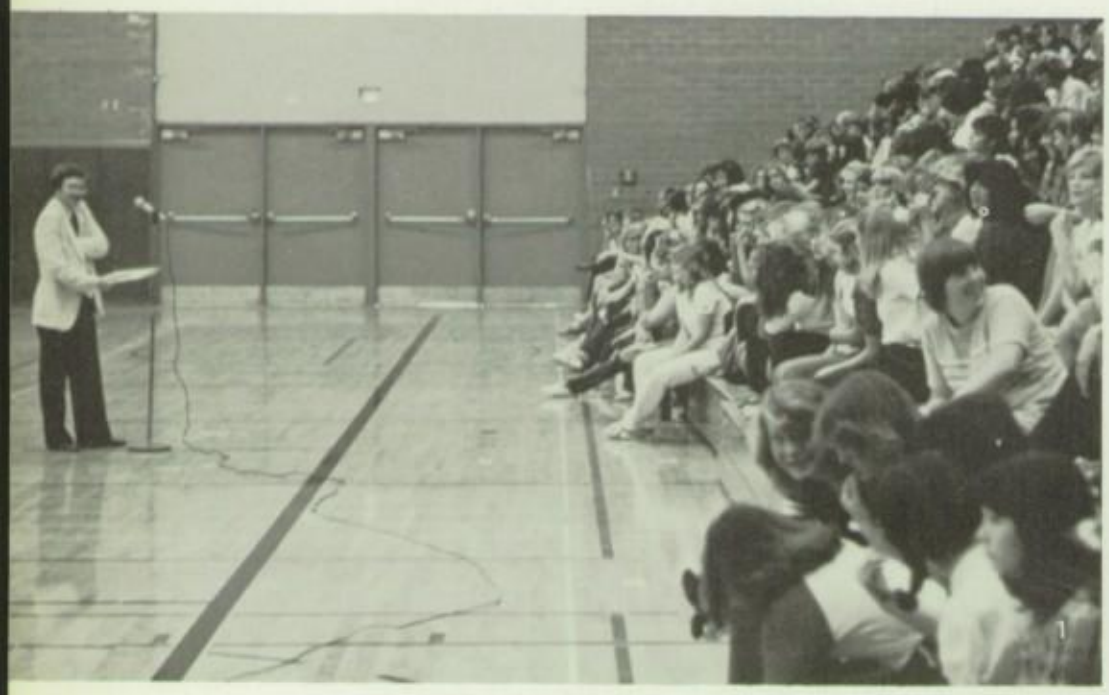
What's Your Fantasy?

1. After getting her hair done Kirsti Hicks can't wait to show her friends. 2. Who are those mysterious men? 3. Could this be Cleveland Williams and Hung Vu? 4. Kermit the frog (alias Barbara Juliano) was another celebrity that came to Troy. 5. Showing up in their Sunday best, the GO-GO's make their appearance. 6. A couple of witches dropped by to cast a spell on Troy. 7. Mary Jane O'Brien and Kelly Kinnane become a maid and a genie for a day.



What's your ghoulish fantasy? What monsterly creature have you always wanted to be? What, in your wildest dreams, did you turn your mild-mannered self into?! We had warriors drink Dr. Jekyl's potion and turn into Med-flies, a few students walked into Dr. Frankensteins laboratory and walked out with wild new hairstyles, and the superheroes found their way into many of Troy's classes! It was a Halloween to remember. Somebody turned Hari Krishna, and the "Monster from the Black Lagoon" became a land animal for the day. "Barbie" made her (his?) appearance, the Go-Go's didn't have a thing to wear and someone opened up the cage and let all the Playboy Bunnies out! Well, no matter what their imagination drove them to, we all hope that these ghouls will keep themselves hidden until next October 31st.

Don't You Love 'Em?



A'right, quiet down, quiet down. Yeah, this is just another of our many assemblies, but hey, don't you love 'em? All the cheering, the class competition, the enthusiasm, don't you love it?! The laughter, the happiness, the friendship, don't you love it?! The teams, the people, the spirit, don't you love it?! The smiles, the music, the precision, don't you love it?! All these things that make up assemblies, hey, don't you love 'em?

Check It Out!

Whew! Check it out! You'd never know so many guys could look so good in a dress unless you were at Troy's Role Reversal Day. Or how about all those urban cowboys that showed up on Cowboy and Indian Day? Those were just two of the days during Troy's Spirit Week. There was also a Sports Day and a T-shirt and Hat Day.

ASB made this week even more special by putting on activities during lunch, such as a bubble gum blowing contest and, of course, a big wheel race. Spirit week was a time when Troy's loyal spirit shined its brightest.

In Tune With Christmas

Christmas has a melody all its own. Its tune is tradition. Everyone forgets their present day worries and remembers an incident that happened 2000 years ago. Celebrating the birth of Christ around the world is as common as decorating the halls at Troy. Every year around this time the laughter and smiles, holly and mistletoe, bring out the Christmas spirit all around Troy. This spirit sparks up the competition among classes, clubs, reindeer, and elves. Each class decorates a hall, each club decorates a tree, and the junior reindeer and senior elves . . . well, they dance to their chipmunk music at the assembly. As for the halls, the seniors won, like always, with their theme "Winter Lights on Broadway" and the Spanish club won for most creatively decorated tree. This song of Christmas doesn't last forever around Troy, but you can bet it will be back next year!

1. Even though it's not a pine tree, it's still a Christmas tree decorated by the Spanish Club. 2. Troy's own Mr. and Mrs. Claus, Jim Dauser and Janet Wagner, and their little elf, Tommy Shepherd. 3. Decorating the senior hall, Mary Hohn stares down Broadway. 4. Strolling through the juniors' underwater wonderland, Mrs. Heaton walks to class. 5. The junior class reindeers get together to sing "Rudolf the Red-Nosed Reindeer." 6. Seasons Greetings from the senior class. 7. A human Christmas tree, Danny Stredler, and presents, Dana Lee and Terri Hathaway. 8. The award winning hall, "Winter Lights on Broadway", by the senior class.

Some Enchanted Evening

Swish, swish, the girls' gowns floated silently across the floor as the young couples strolled quietly down "Broadway Avenue" in Troy's gym. The orchestra, Phaux, played sweet melodies for the youthful lovers to waltz to. On they danced into the night under the romantic trance of happiness, and the hazy glow of winter lights. They kept their spinning steps on the floor of "Central Park" surrounded by a multitude of balloons and the simple common-place hospitality found in Troy's gym. The evening commenced at nine o'clock and ended at the stroke of twelve.

1. The action really gets started as the couples rock out and dance to the beat. 2. Cheryl Spangenberg, Kelly Kinnane, and Shawna Juliff celebrate as they solo dance with their array of balloons. 3. Kristia Kinan dances to the beat of "On Broadway".

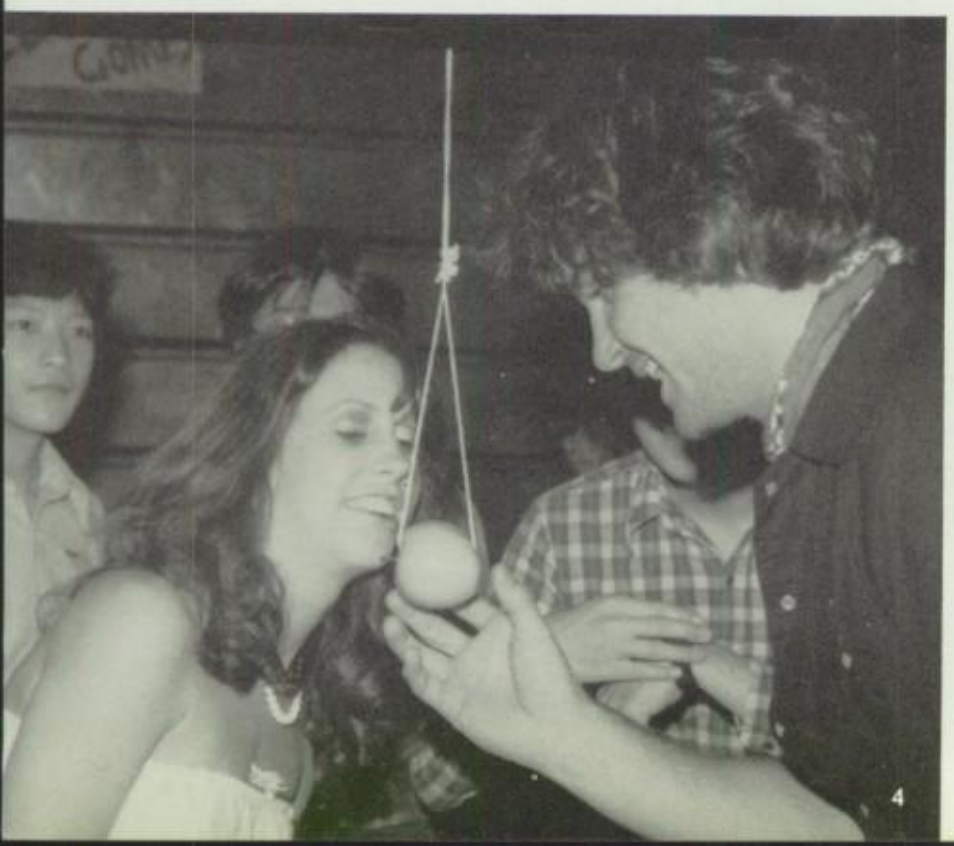
Salön



Dear Ma an' Pa,

Me and my man were on our way to Virginia City to get hitched (as ya all knows), by that nice preacher man, Reverend Watson, when we stumbled upon this quaint lil' saloon. There was dancin' an' drinkin' (rootbeer o' course) and gamblin'! Slider, the orch'stra was real good. We was dancin' and singin' to some o' them pop'lar songs, when all o' a sudden, this big ol' sherrif man, drug me by the arm an' threw me in jail. I couldn't understand why, but my man, the gallant knight that he be, come and bailed me out. Then we went and got our fortunes told by this gypsy, and she tol' us that we was in love n' that we would soon win some riches. An' was she right! We went n' played the roulette wheel an' won a corn cob pipe for my man n' we also fished up a garter for me. We was plumb tickered out by all this runnin' around we was doin' an' stopped for some refreshments at the bar. There was so much to do an' see, that you all ought to come here sometime. Me n' my man will be seein' ya in the spring.

Love n' Kisses,
Sadie

A Preview Of Prom . . .

You should have been there! Wow, was it a trip! There was a valet to park your car-he even told me how "lovely" I looked! What a "Cassanova." Well, the Bonaventure was just splendid! It was so big! We arrived slightly early and, boy, were we stared at! ("Black tie so soon? Why it's not quite 4:30. We wanted to get a good table.") Dinner was superb. We had steak, the kind that melts in your mouth. After dinner we had a lot of time to kill, (maybe we arrived too early?) so we took a tour of the place. We walked around the gift shops and looked at all sorts of things. We even tried the elevators for the whole 32 floors-I will not try that again! I thought I was going to lose my dinner on the way down! After we touched ground again (and was I happy!) we headed towards the dance floor. Magnificent! The ballroom was huge, and with the lights low and the band playing a slow song, it was really romantic! Thank-you, class of '83, for making prom so wonderful! It was a night to remember!

Love,
Erin

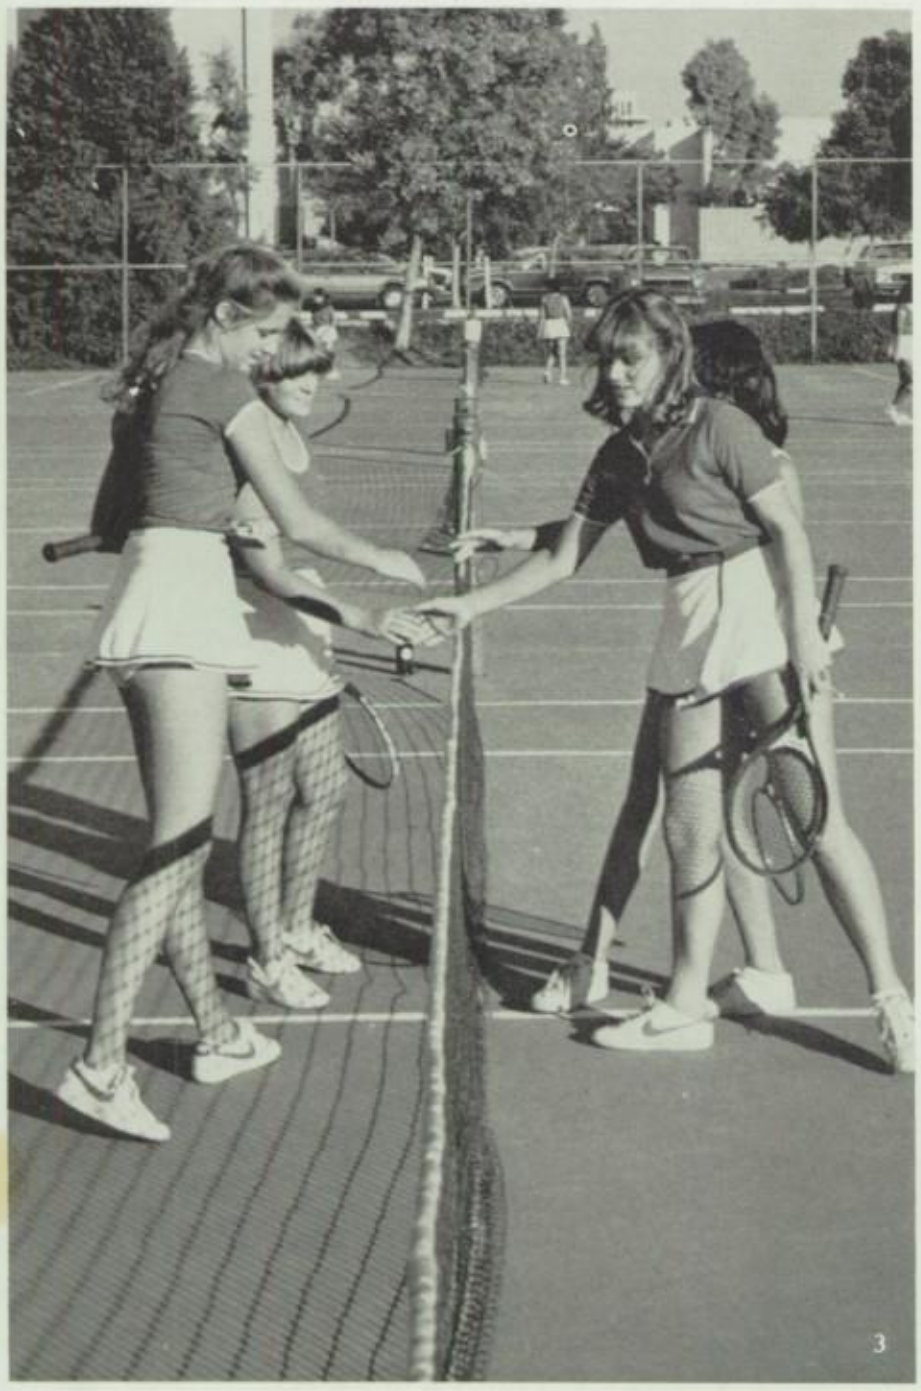
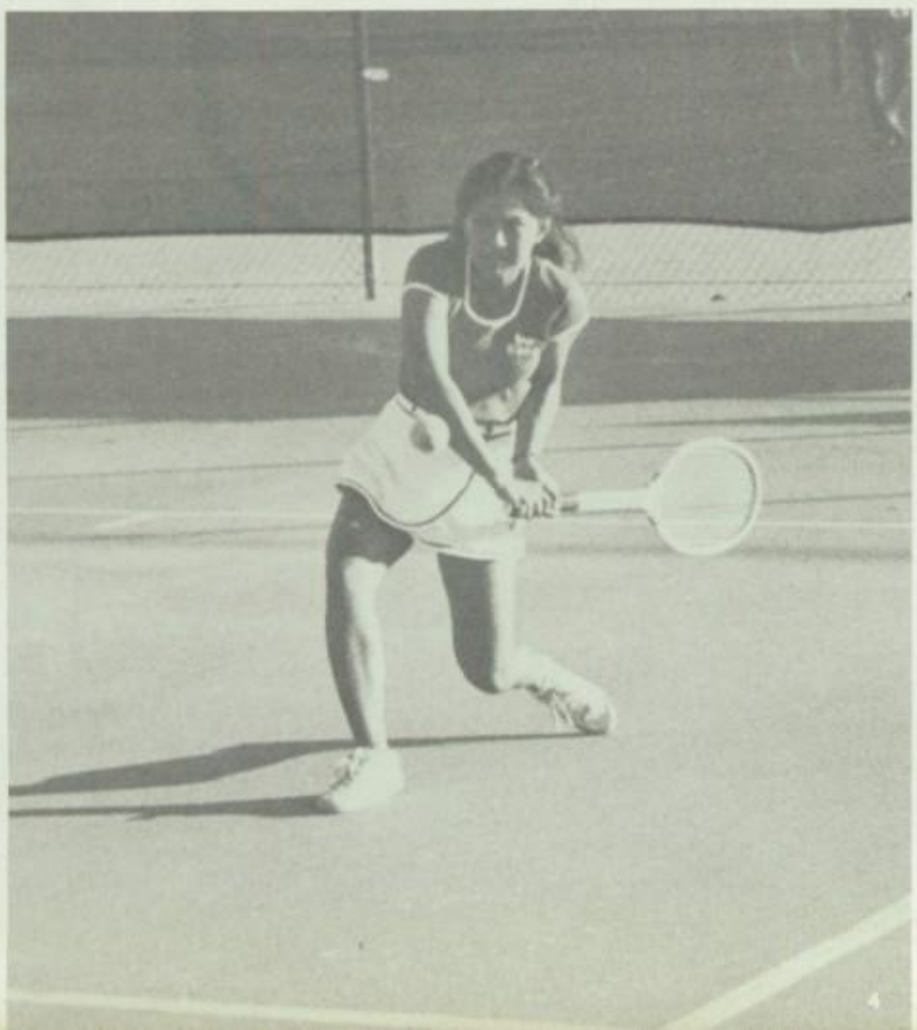
Tennis Guts It Out



If you happened to pass by the tennis courts this year you may have seen rackets flying and heard screams of anguish. It may have seemed that the girls on varsity tennis had bad tempers but it was actually the opponents showing their frustration. Opponents usually had a good reason for being frustrated since Troy had an 8-2 record and went two rounds in the C.I.F. playoffs. This record put them in second place in the league. The doubles teams of Beth Machamer and Stephanie Dossey, Christy Clay and Dinna Laure and Jackie Roaro-Jasso and Kim Williamson pulled out many close matches with their many victories. Singles players Eve Scholze, Gabriela Hamilton, and Anna Hoffmann played better than expected winning a majority of their matches. Eve Scholze was voted the Most Valuable Player and Beth Machamer was the Most Inspirational, but it was truly a team effort.



1. Eve Scholze displays her consistent backhand. 2. Christy Clay attempts to ace her opponent. 3. Beth Machamer and Stephanie Dossey (left) show their sportsmanship after a match with Fullerton. 4. Serving For Perfection

"Hey, are you going to practice today?"

"Yeah, I guess so."

"What's the matter? Don't you want to go?"

"No, not really, but I need the practice."

And that's just what it took. The dedicated team finished their season with a record of eight and two. The second place finish was attributed to dedicated players like La-Donna Sutherland and Malia McGrath, who were also voted the most valuable players by their teammates. Coach Knight complimented the team by saying their second place finish was well deserved. Good job J.V.!

Tough Courts For J.V.

After a slow start the Girls Junior Varsity tennis team had a good year. The competition in the new league proved to be strong but the team adjusted in the second half of the season. My Aching Feet

I've been abused, crushed, ripped, muddied, and just plain worn out and I'm glad this is it! I'm turning in my shoe laces. When John Walker walked into Running Etc. and bought me I thought I had it made. After all, how far could a little guy like this run? I found out quickly. As soon as he bought me he tied me on his smelly feet and ran ten miles! Up and down hills, through dirt and gravel, and over hard cement. But I've noticed that all of the shoes in Cross Country go through the same grueling agony. Many shoes die right off, getting torn or having holes worn into them. But I've been lucky and have made it to this last, final race. Only three more miles to go and I and all of the other shoes get to retire. All of us have gotten better and better throughout the year. Under the coaching of Tom Tuckers shoes we've had a fantastic season. Both the Boys' and the Girls' Varsity made it to CIF Prelims What an accomplishment!

1. John and David Walker give it all they've got. 2. Anthony Godfrey at League Meets. 3. Brian Van Marter runs for all he's worth. 4. Those few grueling seconds before the start of a race. 5. First Year, And First Place

Who in their right mind would ever expect a first year team to win league? Well, the Girls' Varsity Soccer Team sure had faith- and talent too! With All-League players like Sharon Fontes, Balin Hummitsch, Jenny Sifter, Shelly Trimble and the league's most valuable player Mary Rodriguez. How could they be anything but a winning team? Troy's girls finished their CIF-bound season with a record of 7-0-1. No losses! Not bad for a first year team!

Soccer: The Team Of The Future

The new sport at school sure seems to be turning some heads. The newly-formed Boys Varsity Soccer Team boasted a commendable third place finish with a record of 4-4-2, and earned them a ticket to the first round of the CIF play-offs. First team All-League honors went to Jeff Clewett. Second team honors went to Kevin Dutton. Scott Audiss, Matt Wenzel, Doug Lee, Bobby Vogel, Payman Khosrami, Anthony Kohlenberger, Brian Van Marter, and Toby Crain all received honorable mention. So all CIF teams, make room for Troy!

Goal For Troy!

Once upon a time there was a small group of enthusiastic parents with a common goal. That goal was to start a soccer program here at Troy High School. Well, that group grew and after a few meetings the Troy Soccer Booster Club was founded. These people were responsible for getting the whole program off the ground. They supplied the uniforms, equipment, and even the coaches. The coaches selected were Cliff Trimble for the girls team and Bela Bircsak for the boys team. The coaches were in charge of both the Varsity and J.V. teams.

The J.V. teams were the work-horses of the whole program. They worked-out everyday with the Varsity, sometimes knowing that they wouldn't have a game the next day because the school the Varsity was playing didn't have a J.V. team. Nevertheless, those players would be out there cheering on the Varsity teams. Practicing with and against the Varsity sure paid off. The Girls J.V. Team went undefeated giving them first place in league. While the Boys J.V. also did very well taking second place in their league. Just wait until these players turn varsity!

1. Ron Ven Swency looks for a teammate to pass to. 2. Pat Gallagher unloads one. 3. Pam Allen lends her support. 4. Laura Stanley beats her opponent to the ball. 5. J.V. Bold Spirit And . . .

Although the Boys' Varsity Basketball Team didn't have its usual winning season, there were still some good aspects. Senior Mark Boise led the team throughout the year. He was the leading scorer as well as rebounder. Another outstanding player was Junior Tony Mattson who contributed much but was, unfortunately, sidelined by an eye injury.

Coach Morris was pleased with the team's excellent spirit and their cooperative attitude to work together.

1. Troy's defense springs into action in a game against Sonora. 2. At the free throw line, Tony Matson takes a penalty shot. 3. Taking a time-out, the team discusses their strategy with Coach Morris. 4. Mark Boyes lays one in for Troy. 5. Mark Green moves the ball down court with an overhand throw to his teammates. 6. Mike Salas' fancy footwork keeps Troy's defense alive.

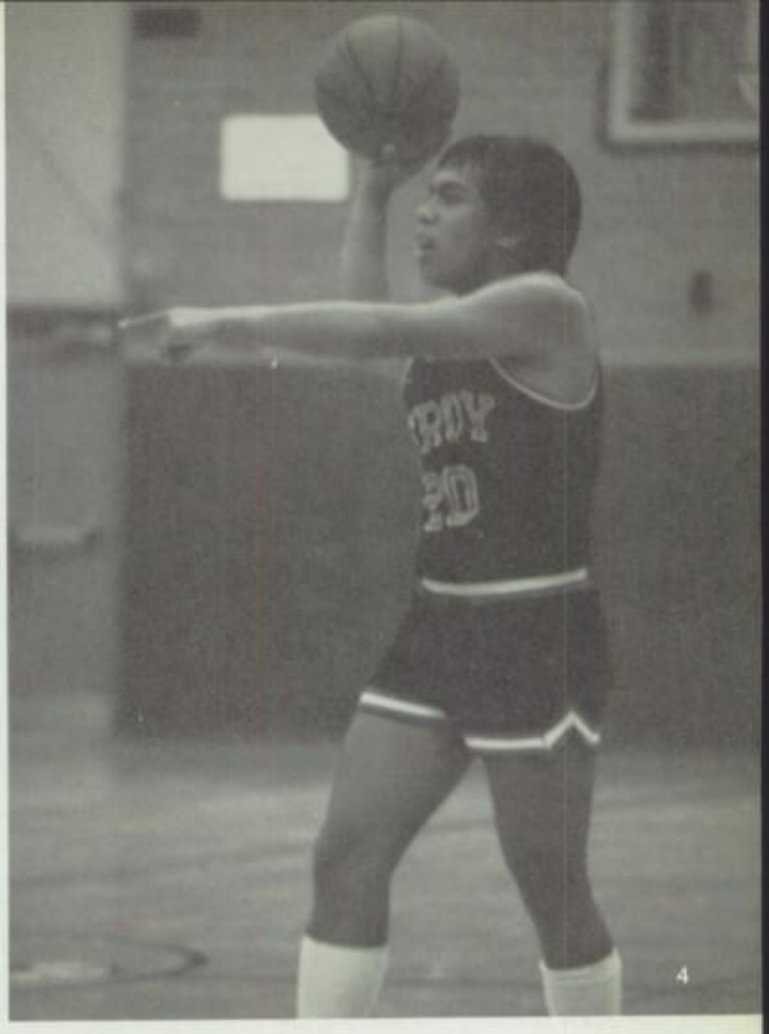
Dedication



The Boys' Varsity Basketball Team may have not been champions, but they sure worked like they were. Their practices were very tough. Coach Morris started them off in the Katella Summer League which was two nights a week, and also had them go to a four week summer camp for basketball. During school the players practiced up to three hours a night an often ran four miles a day.

Coach Morris was certain that the players who played for him this year are going to lead very successful lives.

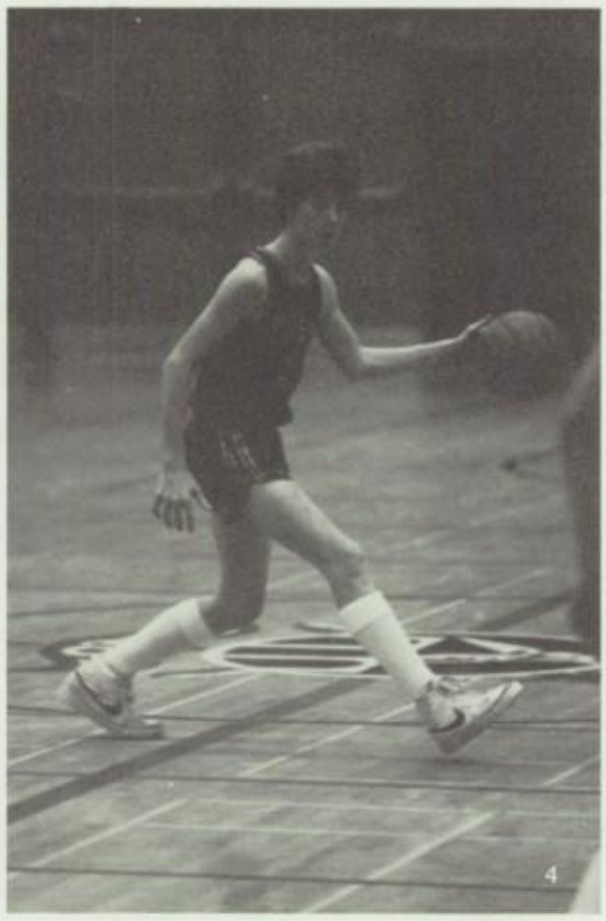
Improved Teams

Our J.V. basketball team was coached by Norm Davis and came through the season with five wins and fifteen losses. The coach commented, "We were young and inexperienced, but we improved with playing experience and practice."



The Frosh-Soph basketball team was led by Steve Welch. They had a good season under the coaching of Cubby Sands.

That Sinking Feeling

The Girls' Varsity basketball team was relatively unsuccessful this year despite their having an abundance of talent. They finished the season with a 3-7 record. This was especially disappointing since Troy had won five successive championships prior to this season. Cheryl Okamura and Nancy Graham were the leaders of the team. Both Cheryl and Nancy have been on varsity for four years. The team's main strength was its ability to play together.

1. Crystal Doughman lays one in the hoop. 2. Nancy Graham shoots over her opponent. 3. Front row: Nancy Graham, Sheri Campbell, Beth Petrossi, Tana Matthews, and Cheryl Okamura. The girls J.V. Basketball Team was the League champion. They were undefeated, with a record of ten wins and no losses. Under the directions of Cheryl Knight, the team dominated all of their competition.

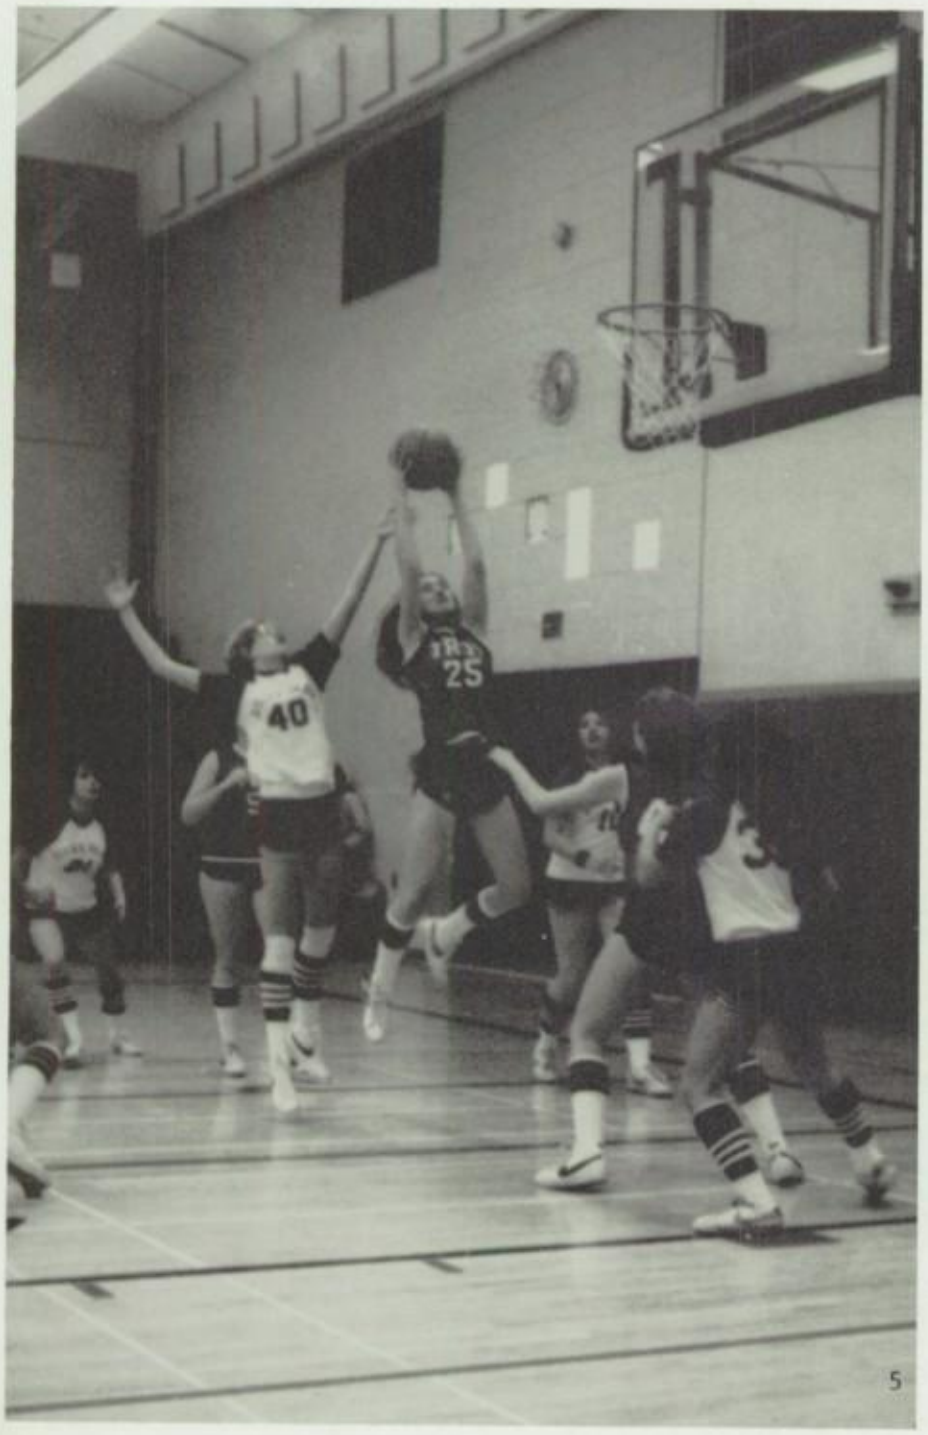
Pin 'Em!



The J.V. wrestling team had an excellent year. The team took first in the Bonita Tournament and third in the Valecia Tournament. In league the Warriors did very well. The team was made up of mostly first-year atheletes. They owe their success to the team's volunteer coach, Al Bushala. They will all be top contenders for future league titles.

Every Man For Himself

As a team, the Troy wrestling record was not too impressive. As a young team, with mostly freshmen and sophomores and only a few juniors and seniors, it was limited to individual victories. For example, the two team captains, Chris Fleming and Byron Danell, represented the team and Troy in upper caliber competition in sectional and state levels.

This Is Where It's At

Do you want to get a head start on a summer tan? Would you like to get in shape for those summer bathing suits? or how would you like to meet new people and travel to distant pools? Well if this appeals to you, then the girls swim team is were it's at! Because of interested parents and the coaching of Pat Marquez, the J.V. and Varsity swimmers showed their opponents what competition meant. But don't let it fool you-it wasn't all work. Of course, it takes dedication but good friendships and fun. This is what swimming's all about.

1. Jodi McNeely keeps up the pace. 2. Gen Crawford works on her butterfly. 3. J.V. top: H. Petroff, J. McNeely, P. Otto, H. Fridlund, B. Hanning, S. Garcia. 4. Messing around again, Lynn Baer convinces Kelly Bowlin she can hold on tight. 5. Pat Marquez waits to hear Lynn's new excuse for being late. 6. Varsity: D. Green, L. Nolder, G. Crawford, T. Team Spirit Leads To Success

Coach John Kolias did a great job this past year coaching his Junior Varsity and Varsity Swimming teams to many victories. Swimming wasn't just a sport to the boys on the team—it was a challenge to improve their individual times, and to contribute to the team as a whole. Team spirit and a lot of hard work were the keys to their success.

In Winning Tradition

Under the supervision of Coach Chuck Beauchamp, the Girls Varsity Softball team had a good start on a winning season with many returning seniors. Coach Beauchamp has high hopes and plans on making C.I.F.

1. Kris Rokosz flings one in for a strike. 2. Play ball girls. 3. Who'll get that ball? 4. Varsity Softball: Front row: Linda Audiss, Yvette Cisneros, Bobbie Felando, Maria DiPinto, Pat Neal. Young Teams Work Hard

Starting off to a great season the J.V. team consisted of 20 players. It was a young team made up of seven sophomores and 13 freshmen. Coach Bill Morris felt that his team had outstanding talent and with two years of experience they should be an excellent baseball team. Because of inexperience, Coach Morris hoped to finish in the first division. The team might have problems but only with older teams. For now, they demonstrated good team spirit, enthusiasm in the sport, and had an excellent attitude. The team's leading hitter was Manuel Cano freshman; the pitching staff consisted of Tony Panetti, Mark Stevens, D.J. Corrigan, and Marty Gissinger.

The Girl's J.V. team was a "real spirited team," commented Coach Hoover. The girls worked hard to perfect their skills and they improved daily. A returning pitcher was Theresa Tenella with improved pitching skills and improved hitters were Lori Hanes and Deena Robinson.

Pam Allen sprints to first base.

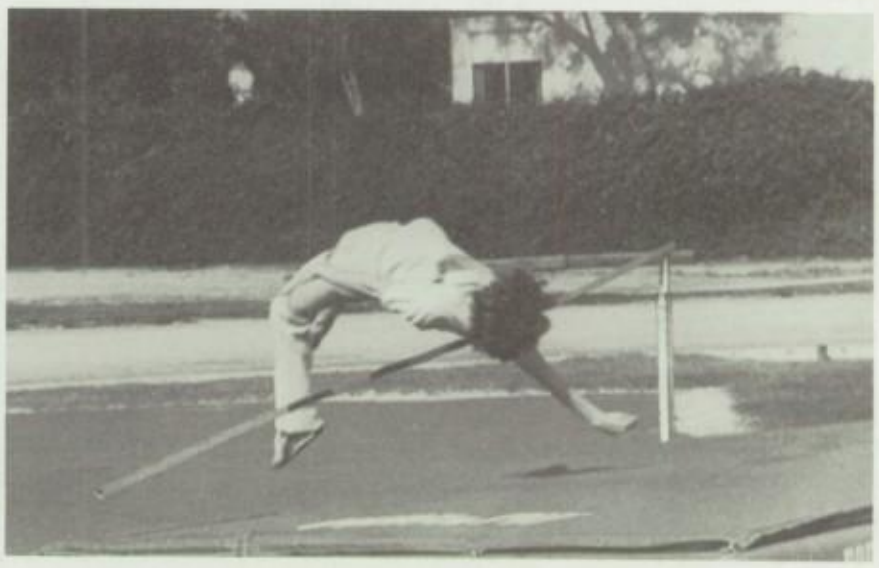
Varsity In Action

Again, the Varsity Warriors looked forward to a smashing season. Although the team got off to a slow start, Coach Sethman felt they would do well as the season progressed. The team consisted of 15 players, nine seniors and six juniors, which also included four returning starters. Coach Sethman commented that his players were very young as far as experience was concerned but nevertheless they had potential and talent to be as good as any Freeway League team. The team was led by Captain Kurt Beamesderfer with assistant coaches Bill Riddell and Gary Condon. This team was out for victory!

1. Darrin Ballantine strikes out another one of his opponents. 2. Bobby Jewell is ready for the next play. 3. Front row: Darrin Ballantine, Mark DeJesse, Steve Scribante, Doug Hunt, Kenny Weller. 2*nd* row: Brad Matney, Jim Moorehead, Jeff Michael, Damen Suter, Mike Subeck, Manager. 3*rd* row: Coach Sethman, Kerry Holmes, Scott Liolios, Kurt Beamesderfer, Tom Alig, Dave Marron, Scorekeeper. 4. What a spirited team! 5. Jim Moorehead and his teammate take the field.

Girls Jump Ahead

The girls Varsity track team under Coach Cheryl Knight had a good year. They improved their record over last year despite losing some talented athletes. While team members were not as successful as individuals, they were more successful as a team. One reason for the team's prosperity was the spirit they had and the support they gave one another.



1. Annette Moser attempts her longest jump. 2. Tiffany Foster and Terri Hathaway try to get around just one more time. 3. Coach Knight discusses strategy with some team members. 4. Front: Socorro Ruvalcaba, Sandy Tanner, Dana Lee, Ann Browning, Dienna Garofolo and Annette Macchiavello. 2nd: Mary Seter, Heather Harlow, Maureen Hammel, Kendra Winberg, Molly Mathewson, Kim Huelsenbeck, Terri Hathaway, Tiffany Foster, Darla Winberg, and Margie Gray. Top: Coach Cheryl Knight, Lucinda Mercado, Crystal Doughman, Patty Hammel, Michelle Miller, Cathy Cass, Andrea West, Andy Anderson, Annette Moser, Nancy Cullen, and Manager, Julie McCall. 5. Darla Winberg runs her leg of the relay. 6. Molly Mathewson turns the corner. 7. Patty Hammel just misses her jump.

Naturally Skilled

Rained out again. It seemed like every track meet was scheduled on a rainy day. Practice was difficult, but Troy had enough natural skill to defeat most of their competition. Led by a number of experienced athletes, the team had such victories as a one hundred and twenty eight to nine victory over John Glenn High School. Troy also defeated both Magnolia High and Esperanza High in the Troy way.

1. Is it a bird? Airplane? No, it's Kenny. 2. Top row: Coach Tom Tucker, Greg Antista, Tom Compher, Lowell Nolder, Jim Wedaa, Daniel Joyce, Ken Williams, Mike Downing, Anthony Kohlenberger, Sean Robertson, Middle Row: Bob Vogel, Dave Walker, Robert Carmichael, Bob Morgan, George Tanner, Matt McCune, Scott Rayman, Wayde Walker, Blaine Thorne, Bottom Row: Sean Hammel, Pat O'Donovan, Jerry Grey, Bob Hathaway, John Walker, Richard Wallace, Payman Khosravi, Paul Mayeda. 3. John and David Walker lead the school to victory in the distance events. 4. Bob Hathaway leaps to victory. 5. Sean Robertson is up but not over. 6. Robert Carmichael completes another dazzling vault.

On The Run

At the sound of the gun, the boys Frosh-Soph Track sprinted ahead towards first place. They hurdled all obstacles and high-jumped to a successful year. The team demonstrated they had the qualities and the skills for a winning season.

Is Tennis Your Racket?

If tennis is your racket then you're a perfect match for the boys J.V. Tennis Team. They guarantee a smashing set with the "love" of your choice. Having had a successful year, they will be tough to ace.

1. Acing his opponent is Vil Freimanis. 2. Warriors sprint for the best time. 3. Frosh/Soph Track Team Front Row: C. Jocon, J. Mikkelsen, C. Schlaepfer, R. Baldwin, M. Genesi, D. Nakawaki, P. It Takes Guts!

Rain left little time for practice and competition in the new season. Motivated new coach, Kraig Kobayashi, lead the Boys Varsity Tennis team through a successful year. Mike Salas and Steve Tolan set the pace with deep corner shots and strong serves. As always, Troy finished the season with great scores and most important, pride and confidence in their game.

1. With pretty solid groundwork, Mike Salas moves nicely into the ball. 2. Ron Rodis uses a firm backhand and returns a corner shot. 3. Mike Salas positions himself and shows good racquet preparation. 4. Steve Tolan strives for an ace. 5. Boys Tennis- Back Row: Coach Kobayashi, G. Nelson, L. Glemstedt, M. Salas, J. Calvin, S. Super Gymnasts

Who is as graceful as a ballerina? More flexible than a rubberband? Able to clear the vault in a single bound? You guessed it, the gymnastic team, which was made up of supergirls with some super talent. Unfortunately, there just weren't enough of them to make a team. This lack of gymnasts resulted in a disappointing year. But, it was not a total loss since the girls gained experience that could be helpful in future seasons.

1. Cheryl Spangenberg flies through her floor routine. 2. These two are certainly flipped over the Warriors. 3. During warm-ups Tammy Fleming gets some help with her back tuck. 4. While on beam, Sheryl Riethmeir struts her stuff. 5. Before the next event Chris Bircsak gets some advice from Coach Marcinko. 6. Front Row: Laurie Frenette, Francene Rago, Debbie Fenter, Sheryl Riethmeir Back Row: Tammy Fleming, Ann Marcinko, Chris Bircsak, Jodi Garofolo. 7. Chris Bircsak takes a bar break. 8. Finished with her forward roll, Kim Wagner concentrates on the next trick-standing up.

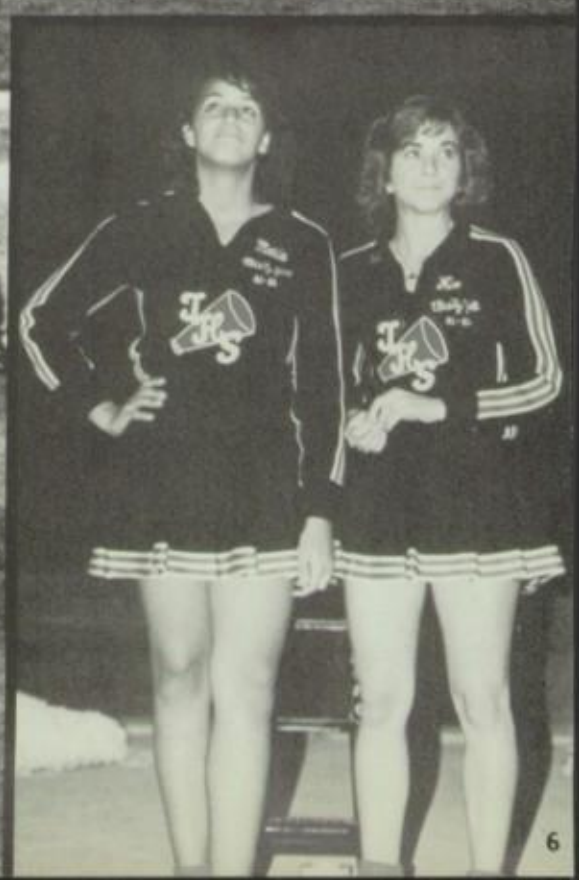
Rise And Shine

What has two legs, no make-up, curlers in their hair and a lot of school spirit?
A. Troy's drill team and small precision.
B. Sunny Hill's football players.
C. El Dorado's dog squad.
D. None of the above.

If you guessed A, you are absolutely right. Drill team and small percision members arrived at 7:30 every morning to practice for various events, football games, assemblies, competitions and their annual spring show. All their team work sure paid off when drill team and small precision both placed fifth in California.

Lorri Barker and Laurie Gilligan get hyper at the homecoming game.



Three Cheers

Talent, charm, and good looks add up to our dazzling Varsity Yell and Song. Most sports last a couple of months but cheerleading is a far more demanding activity. Practicing for many months and competing during the summer when most people were at the beach, payed off with two highly spirited squads led by seniors Maria Mercado and Rhonda Doughman. It may look easy but you need alot of ability and energy to perform, and a lot of money. "Its great to be able to make the crowd laugh and smile," said Kim Precsh. "Cheerleading is great."

Maria Mercado and Kim Precsh mesmerized by the overwhelming spirit of the crowd. 7. 1981-82 Varsity Yell and Song are: Bottom: Susan Rodriguez, Head-Song leader Rhonda Doughman, Laura Hohn, Lori Morgan, Kelly Kinnane, Marnie Fleming. The Spirit Keeps Going!

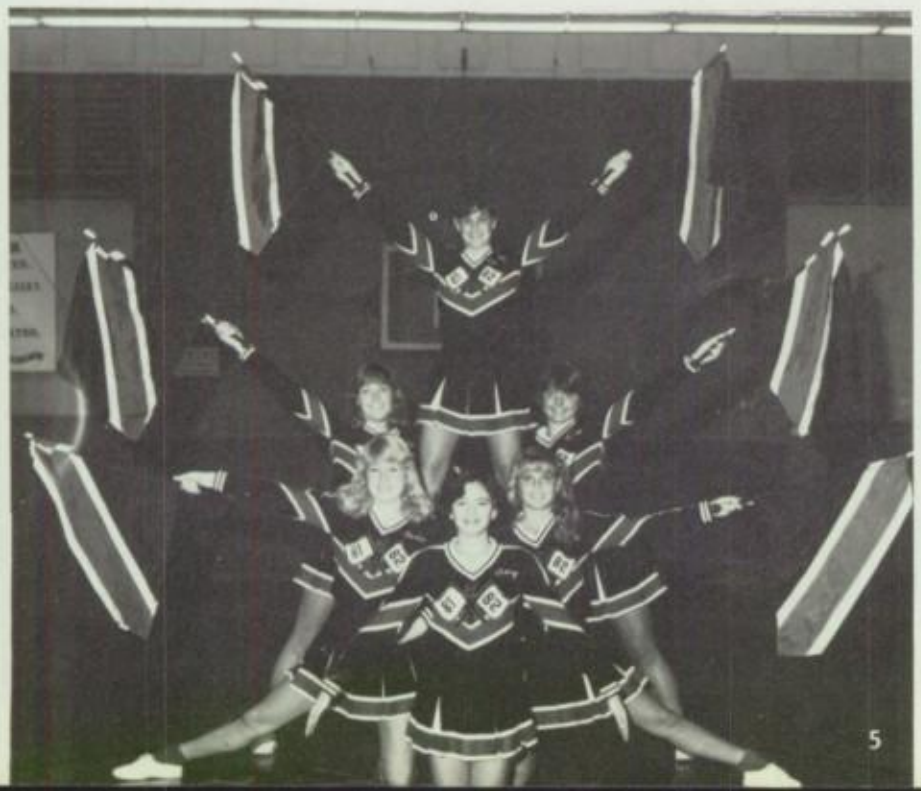
The Frosh-Soph and J.V. cheerleaders worked long and hard at raising school spirit and supporting the various teams. How did they do? Great!

The Small Flag Squad dazzled the entire school with their performances. When they took to the road for an important competition, they also dazzled the judges, returning with the title of #1 and the privilege of performing at Dodger Stadium. Great job girls!



1. Tired Cheryl Hazelton get a lift from Pam Wilder. 2. Frosh-Soph Cheerleaders: Tammy Fleming, Shaila Saint, Jody Sanford, Cheryl Hazelton, and Bridget Graff. 3. J.V. 1. Kerri Shetrone, Kendra Winberg, and Joanne Reed really are young at heart. 2. Francene Rago gives a friendly hug to Mr. Atkin. 3. It appears as if Robert Picciotta reverts back to childhood whenever he gets excited. 4. Vicki Jewell and Shelly Taylor must be really hungry to look that excited about cafeteria food! 5. Diane Burr presents various music of the year. 6. Robyn Kahler laughs at every joke. 7. We love Troy! 8. Wouldn't you agree that Wendy McKain would make the perfect model? 9. A group of seniors—being themselves.

Marty,

Well Bud!, I don't know what to say, it's been a lot of fun being friends w/ you, you add a lot of spice to life!! I know you're not as big of an airhead as you appear to be — so don't screw up next year! I'm gonna miss you a lot you've been a good friend and I hope we will always stay in touch maybe (992-4408)
